69th Year–20

HIS EMINENCE, Francis Cardinal Spellman (left) walks along the platform in Grand Central Terminal, New York, as he returns home from a 30-day, 28,000-mile air trip which included a visit to the Korean front. He said that Communism "certainly is more aggressive and more successful" than during his world tour in the late 40's.

Escaped Convicts Eat Companion In Tropical Jungle

BOGOTA, Columbia, Jan. 24—(AP)—Six wild and bearded convicts who escaped a tropical jungle prison camp said Thursday they killed, broiled and ate a seventh companion—the fattest one—and were planning to eat another when they stumbled into a settlement and surrendered.

Their confession was reported by Horacio Rosero Caicedo, director of the National Territories Department of the Columbian Interior Ministry.

The men wandered 38 days through treacherous swamps and jungle inhabited almost solely by snakes, beasts and wild natives. They covered a crow-flight distance of about 250 miles before they reached Puerto Umbria, a river village in an Andean valley, and gave themselves up.

Some were ill with malaria. All were clothed in rotted tatters.

Eating their plumpest companion, they said, was the only way they could get strength to escape the jungle.

The Araracuara prison colony they fled is on the Caqueta River, an Amazon tributary which rises in the Andes not far from Puerto Umbria and flows eastward into the wilds of Brazil.

At Araracuara, there are no walls or fences. Authorities rely on the immensity of its almost impenetrable surroundings, its long distance from all civilization and the prospect of torturous hardships to prevent escapes.

But the hopeless existence in the jungle prison leads many to try it.

Authorities said 18 had fled in small groups during the last two months. To prepare for it, inmates hoard their rations for a meager food supply in the jungle. They almost always are totally unarmed and have little chance to succeed.

Some are never seen again after they slip into the jungle.

Those who are recaptured face longer sentences under closer confinement—in the same jungle camp.

BOARD SIGNS CONTRACT

Architects To Submit Plans For New Hospital Addition

Contract for architects to draw up plans for a new wing and remodeling of present facilities at Berger hospital was signed Wednesday night by the hospital board.

The contract, entered into with the firm of Freshwater and Harrison, architect and engineer, of Columbus, gives the "go ahead" for the preparation of drawings for the proposed addition.

Meeting in special session, the hospital board agreed to have the architects submit estimates of the improvement program to the board.

The contract was signed by Mayor Ed Amey, as president of the hospital board, and James Shea, board secretary.

* * *

PRESENT PLANS of the board is for the construction of a new obstetric wing to the present hospital building, in which all of the rooms and facilities for obstetric cases will be located.

The present obstetric wing will be converted for use of medical and surgical patients.

Additional facilities needed are more private rooms.

At present there is only one private room available to medical and surgical patients, and the proposed changes will make four private rooms available along with two and four-patient rooms.

Modernizing of present facilities is also included in the building program and among these is sound proofing of present hospital corridors by use of acoustic ceilings.

When actual construction of the new wing will be started is not determined, but the board hopes that work can get underway by Spring or early Summer.

* * *

FINAL DISTRIBUTION of tax money available for building the additional facilities at Berger hospital will not be available until December, 1953.

In addition to the tax money available for construction of new facilities at the hospital, the board has several bequests that have been designated for new buildings.

Man Kills 3 Women, Self In Family Tiff

CREAM RIDGE, N. J., Jan. 24—(AP)—A 32-year-old Fort Dix civilian employe shot to death his estranged wife, his mother-in-law and his wife's aunt Wednesday night and then committed suicide.

State police said the man, Garner Powers, killed the three women in the Powers' home in this small Monmouth County community as his four-year-old son watched.

Dead after the shooting orgy were the attractive wife, Gloria, 27; her mother, Mrs. Helen de Mayo, 59; and her aunt, Mrs. Louise Bowker, 61.

Then, police said, Powers grabbed up the boy, Gary, ran to the nearby home of Mrs. Bowker's daughter, and shouted:

"Take care of Gary. I just shot the whole damn bunch of them."

He left the boy, dashed out of the house to return to his own home and fired a bullet from the .45 caliber pistol into his head.

Jersey Residents Call Protest Meet

ELIZABETH, N. J., Jan. 24—(AP)—Local residents, furious over the two recent airliner disasters here, plan an "indignation meeting" for Thursday night to protest "their living in fear of fiery death from the skies."

The meeting was called after an American Airlines plane plunged into a residential area here, killing its 23 occupants and six others in their homes. Only 37 days prior to Tuesday's air tragedy, this city of 112,000 was the scene of the crash of a C-46 plane in which all 56 persons aboard perished.

High School Kids Better Than Collegians

BALTIMORE, Jan. 24—(AP)—Nineteen high school sophomores and juniors who entered Goucher College last fall as a special experiment are making better grades than other Goucher fresmen who had finished high school.

The experimental students ranging in age from 15 to 16 and a half, also had adjusted themselves socially and emotionally to college life, Dr. William C. Budd, assistant professor of education and child development, reported.

In the first report on the experimental speedup made possible by grants from the Ford Foundation, Dr. Budd said the progress of the girls has been "more than satisfactory in every respect."

The object of the project is to learn whether exceptional students can skip a year or two of high school and adapt themselves to college academically and physhologically.

Curb On Troop Use Is Urged

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24—(AP)—Any President sending American armed forces into conflict abroad without congressional authority would face impeachment under a new legislation proposal.

The only exception, under a resolution drawn by Rep. Bery (R-SD), would be in cases where American lives are in danger. Bery said:

"I want Congress to put the President on notice that he would automatically bring impeachment processes against himself should he attempt to throw this country into another Korean conflict without a congressional declaration of war or policy."

Formosa Radar Spots Aircraft

TAIPEH, Jan. 24 — (AP)—Radar screens on Formosa have picked up Chinese Communist patrol planes cruising along the coast of China the last several days.

Reliable sources said the patrol appears to be defensive. But Chinese Nationalist officials have taken extra precautions against a possible attack on Formosa.

Truce Talks Drone On As Charges Fly

UN Radio Says Reds Again Renew Their Stalling Tactics

MUNSAN, Jan. 24—(AP)—The Korean truce talks droned on and on Thursday with little accomplished other than the usual exchange of sharp words.

The United Nations Command again has accused the Communists of playing a waiting game, hoping the Allies will "capitulate out of sheer exasperation."

The accusation came not from truce site headquarters but from the official UN radio in Tokyo. It declared:

"Either the Reds have no intention of reaching an armistice and are merely killing time until their next offensive, or they have been instructed not to bargain on any point. The latter alternative may be the truer one at this date."

The broadcast said the Reds' "waiting game" is "an overt admission from Communists leaders that right now they do not expect anything to happen."

* * *

AS NEGOTIATORS haggled fruitlessly over Korean truce terms Thursday, a UN delegate accused the Communists of planning to use sick and wounded prisoners as a lever to force Allied acceptance of Red Armistice terms.

The charge came from Rear Adm. R. E. Libby after the Reds turned down a repeated Allied appeal for an immediate exchange of sick and wounded prisoners.

"It is evident that you intend to use them as a lever to force us to agree to your fraudulent demands," Libby said.

Meanwhile, Allied raiding parties ended the 19th month of the Korean war with strikes into the Red defense line on the Western Front.

The heaviest fight was west of Chorwon where United Nations tanks and infantrymen fought for six hours Wednesday with Chinese entrenched on a hill.

The raiders struck again at 7:30 a. m. Thursday. The Chinese rained hand grenades down on the Allies and opened up with heavy machinegun and rifle fire.

Another Allied force hit the Chinese northwest of Korangpo in a pre-dawn raid. The Eighth Army said the raiders pulled back to their own lines after killing 20 Reds in an hour-long fight.

Then the frozen fronts quieted after heavy Allied tank and artillery blows.

Lad, 4, Slated To Become A Citizen Of U.S.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 24—(AP)—Four-year - old Gerhard Hoffman Jr. will become an American citizen Friday, thanks to an advertisement in 1948 in a Swiss newspaper.

He is the adopted son of Dr. and Mrs. Gerhard Hoffman of Cleveland, themselves naturalized citizens. This is how young Gerhard came to America:

In 1948, after the Hoffmans found it would take a long time to adopt a baby in this country, Mrs. Hoffman went to St. Gallen, Switzerland, to visit her father.

There, a cousin who was an attorney put an advertisement for a baby in a local newspaper. A father, who was divorced, wrote Mrs. Hoffman about Gerhard, then only three days old.

Mrs. Hoffman returned to America with Gerhard when he was seven weeks old, leaving behind a trail of red tape required for the boy's admission.

And so Gerhard will line up with 154 other Americans-to-be Friday and take his citizenship oath before Federal Judge Emerich B. Freed.

Persons under 18 are naturalized only when parents who are citizens petition for them. Otherwise, the children are required to wait until they are 18 and make their own applications.

Dr. Hoffman, a native of Germany, is a psychiatrist in Western Reserve University's graduate school. Mrs. Hoffman, born in Switzerland, is a psychologist.

AND KEFAUVER PLEDGES FINISH-FIGHT

Taft And Ike Backers Joust For Rocky Mountain Votes

DENVER, Jan. 24—(AP)—Taft and Eisenhower backers are fighting the opening round of what promises to become a bitter battle for the Republican presidential nominating votes of the Rocky Mountain states.

In what elsewhere has been regarded as an area likely to be favorable to Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, rooters are steaming up a vigorous bid for convention support for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in the mountain states.

And on the other side of the political fence, Senator Kefauver's finish-fight bid for the Democratic presidential nomination sharpened the big question today: Does President Truman plan to run again?

Mr. Truman could end the speculation by announcing his plans at his news conference late Thursday, but the White House provided no hint he might do do.

Six states, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, New Mexico, Utah and Wyoming, will cast a total of 80 votes in the GOP convention next July.

While this is fewer than New York's 96, the strategic importance of having western backing has not been lost upon any candidate.

In Colorado, typical of the mountain area, the Taft - Eisenhower battle is likely to find veteran Senator Eugene Millikin, chairman of the conference of all GOP senators, in the forefront for Taft and youthful Gov. Dan Thornton carrying the banner for Eisenhower.

The Colorado situation is somewhat duplicated elsewhere in the area. Taft's supporters have a firm hand on the party machinery and the backing of most of the "professional" politicians.

Eisenhower's backers claim to have overwhelming support within the rank and file of the party, but have to depend on relative "amateurs" to whip this up into convention votes.

With this battle among the Republicans getting well underway, Democrats in most of the area are sitting tight to see what President Truman plans to do.

Kefauver formally entered the race Wednesday. The Tennessee senator said he was "in until the finish," regardless of whether Mr. Truman seeks reelection.

"I am going to work hard to win," said the former chairman of the Senate Crime Investigating Committee. He said:

"I regard it as the right of the American people to have as wide a choice as possible in choosing their leaders. There is a place—and a need—for new blood and new ideas in both parties."

Kefauver said the "paramount issue is peace in the world."

He declared that during the last 20 years "we have made much progress enacting and vigorously pursuing a foreign policy in the interest of world peace."

Kefauver did fire some criticism, however, in the direction of the Truman administration. He said "it goes without saying that we must have clean government," and added:

"We in the federal government must first clean our own house. Some worthwhile things have been done, but not enough—not nearly enough."

SPECIFIC CHARGES PROMISED

Panel Ponders Making Full Probe Of McGrath

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24—(AP)—The House Judiciary Committee was called into closed - door session Thursday to consider an investigation of Attorney General McGrath and alleged "favoritism and influence" in the Justice Department.

Before the committee was a resolution by Rep. Keating (R-NY) calling for a full-scale inquiry into McGrath's administration since he was appointed attorney general in August, 1949.

It follows closely on President Truman's selection of McGrath, former Democratic national committee chairman, to direct a "clean up" of government corruption highlighted most recently by the Internal Revenue Bureau scandals.

There were indications the committee's decision might cut across party lines.

Celler said he did not want "a political excursion" based on "mere rumor and suspicion," but an investigation based on evidence of wrong-doing.

* * *

ONE DEMOCRAT, Rep. Walter of Pennsylvania, said in advance he would support the resolution.

"I won't vote for any fishing expedition," Walter said, "but if there are any specific charges I certainly think an investigation is warranted."

Keating said there will be specific charges, all right.

"I expect to present six or seven specific cases of alleged favoritism and influence as a basis for my request," he said.

These include cases in which allegations already have been made publicly—involving Justice Department activities in California and St. Louis—and some "new ones," Keating declared, adding:

"The allegations are of an exceedingly serious character."

Ted Lewis On TV Sunday Night

Circleville television fans will have an opportunity of seeing their "favorite son" on their video screens Sunday night on Ed Sullivan's program.

Ted Lewis, top hat and all, will appear as a headliner on Sullivan's "Toast of the Town" show at 8 p. m. Sunday over the Columbia TV network.

Other entertainers appearing with Lewis will be comedian Bert Wheeler, Dolores Gray and dancer Nanci Crompton.

6 Persons Die In Auto Wreck

FRESNO, Calif., Jan. 24—(AP)—Six people were killed Wednesday night when their auto was hit by a railway engine at a grade crossing north of here.

Highway Patrolmen identified the dead as Julio Sabala, 52, of Herndon, Calif.; Victoria, 27, his wife; Julio Jr., 9, David, 5, their sons; Raymond Agular, 19, a relative, and Emily Agular, 17, his sister.

4 Bank Thugs Lose Battle In Mexico

EL PASO, Jan. 24—(AP)—Mexican officials report that a blistering gun fight on the Mexican side of the Rio Grande near here took care of four bandits who pulled a daring daylight raid on a Juarez, Mexico, bank.

However, about $70,000 of the $174,000 loot is still missing.

Two bandits were killed in the half-hour battle Wednesday. Two were captured.

State Attorney General Humberto Reynal of Chihuahua, Mexico, told the El Paso Times that Juarez police had abandoned the search for two other men who at first were suspected of taking part in the robbery.

Alfonso Rey was killed instantly in an exchange of gunfire at San Lorenzo, six miles south of Juarez. His brother, Leopoldo Rey, died about midnight in a Juarez hospital.

Officials said they had no idea where the rest of the loot from the Banco Nacional de Mexico was hidden.

Lad Shot Playing Cowboys, Indians

CINCINNATI, Jan. 24—(AP)—Three-year-old Lloyd Johnson was in General Hospital Thursday after being shot in the abdomen while playing "cowboys and Indians."

Police said the child was wounded by his five-year-old brother, Michael, who had picked up a .32 calibre automatic pistol from a trunk. His condition was reported good.

Rudolph Rainey, grandfather of the children, said the weapon belonged to him. He told officers he could not understand how the pistol was obtained, since it was locked in the trunk.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24 — (AP)—Maj. Gen. Edgar Erskine Hume, former chief surgeon of the Far East Command, died Thursday. He was 62.

Wider Federal Mine Safety Rules Backed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22 — (AP)—Ohio congressmen who represent coal mining areas say they favor wider federal mine safety powers.

Reps. Hays (D), Secrest (D), and Jenkins (R) said they support the idea of a federal mine safety code, though they did not endorse any specific legislation now pending.

Rep. Brehm (R) said he is willing that federal mine inspectors be given more safety authority than they now have, but that the states retain final say as to whether a mine should be closed.

President Truman has urged congress to enact federal mine safety legislation. At present, federal mine inspectors may make recommendations, but have no authority to order mines closed.

Sentiment for a federal mine safety code arose anew in the wake of the West Frankfort, Ill., mine disaster which claimed 119 lives just before Christmas.

Brehm said a federal mine inspector should have the right to clear a mine of men as an emergency measure when he detects a dangerous situation, but should then be required to inform state mine safety officials. After a joint federal - state inspection, Brehm continued, the state should have ultimate authority to decide whether to reopen the mine or keep it closed.

Gen. Sherman's Letters Held By Ohio Group

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24 — (AP)—The general lost a five-month-old son while he was away fighting.

But Ellen Sherman couldn't bring herself to write him the news. Bearded, hard-driving William Tecumseh Sherman was a tender, devoted father.

That sidelight in the life of the famous Civil War commander was revealed in letters purchased recently by the Ohio State Archaeological and Historical Society.

They were written by Sherman and his wife to her brother—Philleman Ewing, son of Thomas Ewing, one-time U. S. Senator.

The letters took a circuitous route to the state society. It started when—one day in 1929—W. S. Tilton of Delaware bought two boxes of books at a public auction.

He discovered the letters in the boxes and took them to the home of two sisters in Shelby. The sisters tried to sell them to the Library of Congress. But the library wasn't interested.

Time passed, and the letters were forgotten. The sisters died, and Tilton's wife received them. Finally the society arranged the purchase.

Stamp collectors say, apart from the historical value of the letters, the stamps on some of the letters have tremendous value, are among the earliest issued.

Italian Plan To Blast U.S. Harbor Bared

ROME, Jan. 24—(AP)—A wartime Italian naval commander says Italy planned a submarine attack in New York City harbor for December, 1943, but the Italian armistice came along before the scheme could be carried out.

The commander, J. Valerio Borghese, said in a letter-to-the-editor published in the newspaper Roma that a long-range submarine was to carry a smaller one within close range of New York. The little one was to slip up the Hudson River "to the heart of the city" to make the attack.

Borghese said he took part in successful year-long tests of the small assault craft at Iseo Lake in Lombardy. He reported the mother sub idea was perfected at an Italian submarine base at Bordeaux, France.

He said the surrender of the Italian fleet in the armistice of Sept. 8, 1943, stopped the attack plan.

Democrat Party Treasurer Quits

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 24—(AP)—Roy J. Turner Wednesday gave up his job as national treasurer of the Democratic Party.

Turner told Democratic Chairman Frank E. McKinney his wife's illness and the uncertainty as to when she'll be well again has made it impossible for him to be national treasurer.

PUCO Aide Hears Phone Complaints

PORTSMOUTH, Jan. 24 — (AP)—Twenty-two witnesses for subscribers of the Ohio Consolidated Telephone Co. testified here Wednesday at a hearing before Attorney-Examiner Lewis Witherspoon of the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio. All complained about poor telephone service.

Only witness for the company was Richard N. Cole, its president. He said improvement had been made in the service, that others are being made, and that an increase in rates is being asked to cover cost of the improvements. The hearing is one of a series being held by the commission on the company's bid for a rate increase.

Bey Told To Aid In Restoring Order To Protectorate

TUNIS, Jan. 24—(AP)—The French delivered a stern warning Thursday to the Bey of Tunis, demanding he help restore order in this seething protectorate, where 10 days of rioting have claimed at least 50 lives.

Jean de Hauteclocque, the French resident general, told the Bey unless he takes steps to avoid further bloodshed, the French will be compelled to take even stiffer military measures than are under way now.

The French rushed heavy reinforcements of gendarmes and troops into trouble spots throughout Tunisia, where Arab Nationalists are clamoring for more independence from France.

The Bey, Sidi Mohamed Al Amir, has been sympathetic to the Nationalist demands. Earlier in the week he had refused to see the president general.

Official sources put the death toll in the more than a week of rioting at 44 Tunisians and six French killed. They said more than 150 Tunisians and 20 French were wounded.

* * *

UNCONFIRMED reports said 20 more Tunisians had been killed Wednesday in continued rioting at Moknine, 120 miles southeast of Tunis. Three French police were slain at Moknine.

Tunisian sources claimed two French police were killed in Tunis this morning. This was denied by the French, who said one Arab was killed during the night.

The French reported no new outbreaks since dawn.

In apparent preparation for a get tough policy, isolated French colonists were moved from small communities to larger population centers. Those from Moknine were brought into Sousse, where French naval commandos landed Wednesday from the gunboat Elan.

Another group of commandos went ashore at Sfax, still farther down the jagged east coast line of Tunisia.

The French cancelled a public funeral at Sousse for Col. Norbert Durand, French military commander of the Sousse area who was killed in the fighting there.

Navy Chieftain Raps Civilians For 'Harping'

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 24—(AP)—Secretary of Navy Dan A. Kimball, struck sharply at inefficient government employes and harping civilians Wednesday night.

He delivered his strongly worded speech to a meeting of the local Navy League Council and the Milwaukee Executives Club after laying aside his prepared text.

Referring to men in government, Kimball declared "if they don't deliver the goods, let them get the hell out of office."

As for critical civilians, he said:

"If you're not willing to come down and show us how to do it better, don't sit at home and criticize."

The Navy secretary did not mention any names.

On another subject, Kimball warned:

"If—God forbid—we do not have a truce in Korea the Navy will carry the war to the enemy."

"I expect to present six or seven specific cases of alleged favoritism and influence as a basis for my request," he said.

These include cases in which allegations already have been made publicly—involving Justice Department activities in California and St. Louis—and some "new ones," Keating declared, adding:

"The allegations are of an exceedingly serious character."

BOARD SIGNS CONTRACT

Architects To Submit Plans For New Hospital Addition

Contract for architects to draw up plans for a new wing and remodeling of present facilities at Berger hospital was signed Wednesday night by the hospital board.

The contract, entered into with the firm of Freshwater and Harrison, architect and engineer, of Columbus, gives the "go ahead" for the preparation of drawings for the proposed addition.

Meeting in special session, the hospital board agreed to have the architects submit estimates of the improvement program to the board.

The contract was signed by Mayor Ed Amey, as president of the hospital board, and James Shea, board secretary.

• • •

PRESENT PLANS of the board is for the construction of a new obstetric wing to the present hospital building, in which all of the rooms and facilities for obstetric cases will be located.

The present obstetric wing will be converted for use of medical and surgical patients.

Additional facilities needed are more private rooms.

At present there is only one private room available to medical and surgical patients, and the proposed changes will make four private rooms available along with two and four-patient rooms.

Modernizing of present facilities is also included in the building program and among these is sound proofing of present hospital corridors by use of acoustic ceilings.

When actual construction of the new wing will be started is not determined, but the board hopes that work can get underway by Spring or early Summer.

• • •

FINAL DISTRIBUTION of tax money available for building the additional facilities at Berger hospital will not be available until December, 1953.

In addition to the tax money available for construction of new facilities at the hospital, the board has several bequests that have been designated for new buildings.

High School Kids Better Than Collegians

BALTIMORE, Jan. 24—(AP)—Nineteen high school sophomores and juniors who entered Goucher College last fall as a special experiment are making better grades than other Goucher fresmen who had finished high school.

The experimental students ranging in age from 15 to 16 and a half, also had adjusted themselves socially and emotionally to college life, Dr. William C. Budd, assistant professor of education and child development, reported.

In the first report on the experimental speedup made possible by grants from the Ford Foundation, Dr. Budd said the progress of the girls has been "more than satisfactory in every respect."

The object of the project is to learn whether exceptional students can skip a year or two of high school and adapt themselves to college academically and physhologically.

Curb On Troop Use Is Urged

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24—(AP)—Any President sending American armed forces into conflict abroad without congressional authority would face impeachment under a new legislation proposal.

The only exception, under a resolution drawn by Rep. Bery (R-SD), would be in cases where American lives are in danger. Bery said:

"I want Congress to put the President on notice that he would automatically bring impeachment processes against himself should he attempt to throw this country into another Korean conflict without a congressional declaration of war or policy."

Man Kills 3 Women, Self In Family Tiff

CREAM RIDGE, N. J., Jan. 24—(AP)—A 32-year-old Fort Dix civilian employe shot to death his estranged wife, his mother-in-law and his wife's aunt Wednesday night and then committed suicide.

State police said the man, Garner Powers, killed the three women in the Powers' home in this small Monmouth County community as his four-year-old son watched.

Dead after the shooting orgy were the attractive wife, Gloria, 27; her mother, Mrs. Helen de Mayo, 59; and her aunt, Mrs. Louise Bowker, 61.

Then, police said, Powers grabbed up the boy, Gary, ran to the nearby home of Mrs. Bowker's daughter, and shouted:

"Take care of Gary. I just shot the whole damn bunch of them."

He left the boy, dashed out of the house to return to his own home and fired a bullet from the .45 caliber pistol into his head.

Jersey Residents Call Protest Meet

ELIZABETH, N. J., Jan. 24—(AP)—Local residents, furious over the two recent airliner disasters here, plan an "indignation meeting" for Thursday night to protest "their living in fear of fiery death from the skies."

The meeting was called after an American Airlines plane plunged into a residential area here, killing its 23 occupants and six others in their homes. Only 37 days prior to Tuesday's air tragedy, this city of 112,000 was the scene of the crash of a C-46 plane in which all 56 persons aboard perished.

Lad, 4, Slated To Become A Citizen Of U.S.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 24—(AP)—Four-year - old Gerhard Hoffman Jr. will become an American citizen Friday, thanks to an advertisement in 1948 in a Swiss newspaper.

He is the adopted son of Dr. and Mrs. Gerhard Hoffman of Cleveland, themselves naturalized citizens. This is how young Gerhard came to America:

In 1948, after the Hoffmans found it would take a long time to adopt a baby in this country, Mrs. Hoffman went to St. Gallen, Switzerland, to visit her father.

There, a cousin who was an attorney put an advertisement for a baby in a local newspaper. A father, who was divorced, wrote Mrs. Hoffman about Gerhard, then only three days old.

Mrs. Hoffman returned to America with Gerhard when he was seven weeks old, leaving behind a trail of red tape required for the boy's admission.

And so Gerhard will line up with 154 other Americans-to-be Friday and take his citizenship oath before Federal Judge Emerich B. Freed.

Persons under 18 are naturalized only when parents who are citizens petition for them. Otherwise, the children are required to wait until they are 18 and make their own applications.

Dr. Hoffman, a native of Germany, is a psychiatrist in Western Reserve University's graduate school. Mrs. Hoffman, born in Switzerland, is a psychologist.

EL PASO, Jan. 24—(AP)—Mexican officials report that a blistering gun fight on the Mexican side of the Rio Grande near here took care of four bandits who pulled a daring daylight raid on a Juarez, Mexico, bank.

However, about $70,000 of the $174,000 loot is still missing.

Two bandits were killed in the half-hour battle Wednesday. Two were captured.

State Attorney General Humberto Reynal of Chihuahua, Mexico, told the El Paso Times that Juarez police had abandoned the search for two other men who at first were suspected of taking part in the robbery.

Alfonso Rey was killed instantly in an exchange of gunfire at San Lorenzo, six miles south of Juarez. His brother, Leopoldo Rey, died about midnight in a Juarez hospital.

Officials said they had no idea where the rest of the loot from the Banco Nacional de Mexico was hidden.

Italian Plan To Blast U.S. Harbor Bared

ROME, Jan. 24—(AP)—A wartime Italian naval commander says Italy planned a submarine attack in New York City harbor for December, 1943, but the Italian armistice came along before the scheme could be carried out.

The commander, J. Valerio Borghese, said in a letter-to-the-editor published in the newspaper Roma that a long-range submarine was to carry a smaller one within close range of New York. The little one was to slip up the Hudson River "to the heart of the city" to make the attack.

Borghese said he took part in successful year-long tests of the small assault craft at Iseo Lake in Lombardy. He reported the mother sub idea was perfected at an Italian submarine base at Bordeaux, France.

He said the surrender of the Italian fleet in the armistice of Sept. 8, 1943, stopped the attack plan.

Wider Federal Mine Safety Rules Backed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22 — (AP)—Ohio congressmen who represent coal mining areas say they favor wider federal mine safety powers.

Reps. Hays (D), Secrest (D), and Jenkins (R) said they support the idea of a federal mine safety code, though they did not endorse any specific legislation now pending.

Rep. Brehm (R) said he is willing that federal mine inspectors be given more safety authority than they now have, but that the states retain final say as to whether a mine should be closed.

President Truman has urged congress to enact federal mine safety legislation. At present, federal mine inspectors may make recommendations, but have no authority to order mines closed.

Sentiment for a federal mine safety code arose anew in the wake of the West Frankfort, Ill., mine disaster which claimed 119 lives just before Christmas.

Brehm said a federal mine inspector should have the right to clear a mine of men as an emergency measure when he detects a dangerous situation, but should then be required to inform state mine safety officials. After a joint federal - state inspection, Brehm continued, the state should have ultimate authority to decide whether to reopen the mine or keep it closed.

Gen. Sherman's Letters Held By Ohio Group

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24 — (AP)—The general lost a five-month-old son while he was away fighting.

But Ellen Sherman couldn't bring herself to write him the news. Bearded, hard-driving William Tecumseh Sherman was a tender, devoted father.

That sidelight in the life of the famous Civil War commander was revealed in letters purchased recently by the Ohio State Archaeological and Historical Society.

They were written by Sherman and his wife to her brother—Philleman Ewing, son of Thomas Ewing, one-time U. S. Senator.

The letters took a circuitous route to the state society. It started when—one day in 1929—W. S. Tilton of Delaware bought two boxes of books at a public auction.

He discovered the letters in the boxes and took them to the home of two sisters in Shelby. The sisters tried to sell them to the Library of Congress. But the library wasn't interested.

Time passed, and the letters were forgotten. The sisters died, and Tilton's wife received them. Finally the society arranged the purchase.

Stamp collectors say, apart from the historical value of the letters, the stamps on some of the letters have tremendous value, are among the earliest issued.

The hearing is one of a series being held by the commission on the company's bid for a rate increase.

Navy Chieftain Raps Civilians For 'Harping'

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 24—(AP)—Secretary of Navy Dan A. Kimball, struck sharply at inefficient government employes and harping civilians Wednesday night.

He delivered his strongly worded speech to a meeting of the local Navy League Council and the Milwaukee Executives Club after laying aside his prepared text.

Referring to men in government, Kimball declared "if they don't deliver the goods, let them get the hell out of office."

As for critical civilians, he said:

"If you're not willing to come down and show us how to do it better, don't sit at home and criticize."

The Navy secretary did not mention any names.

On another subject, Kimball warned:

"If—God forbid—we do not have a truce in Korea the Navy will carry the war to the enemy."

CORTISONE—ENEMY OF ARTHRITIS

Fifteen-Year-Old Youth, Others Show Remarkable Recovery

By ED MISURELL
Central Press Staff Writer

DETROIT—Just about a year ago, 15-year-old Joseph Gill was a hopeless cripple and unable to leave his bed. While other youngsters his age were in school, playing games and out having fun, Joe lay wracked by arthritic pains. To all appearances, he was doomed to to a life of invalidism.

Today, Joe is a picture of boyish happiness. He shoots pool, plays baseball with his friends, is back in school and is able to get about without the use of crutches or other mechanical aids.

What is responsible for the seeming miracle? The "wonder drug" cortisone and a farsighted group of researchers.

Fortunately for Joe he was one of four persons chosen as "guinea pigs" to participate in a special project under the direction of Dr. John Chase at Detroit's Receiving hospital.

The series of studies are part of a program sponsored by the Michigan chapter of the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation with funds from the United Foundation's Torch campaign.

The experiments are aimed at finding new methods to alleviate and possibly cure the suffering of the nation's 3,000,000 or more victims of one of mankind's most painful diseases.

As far back as man can remember, he has been afflicted with arthritis. Through the years fantastic remedies have been tried by countless thousands to overcome the effects of this malady. Centuries ago, doctors considered a bath in oil made from boiled hyenas as a certain cure.

• • •

SOME of today's "modern treatments" range from sulphur, milk and typhoid serums to bee or cobra venom. Virtually the entire collection of drugs on the pharmacist's shelf has been tossed into the fight against arthritis and yet there is no definite cure for the more than 30 different forms of this disease which have been identified.

One point physicians will agree upon is that treatment must be individualized. No two cases are alike, so each patient must be studied as a whole.

Physical, mental, functional and organic conditions must be recognized and possibly corrected to make any inroads on the disease itself. It may be necessary for the doctor to resort to many kinds of therapy since no treatment now in use succeeds in all cases.

When the experiments began at Detroit hospital, Joe, two women and a man were given very high dosages of cortisone. These were concentrated in fairly short periods.

The researchers under Dr. Chase were attempting to discover whether the symptoms of pain, swelling and stiffness would disappear faster and remain suppressed permanently, or for longer periods, than with normal maximum doses.

The adults taking part in the tests were treated with 500 milligrams of cortisone daily, an amount approximately five times the usual dose given to arthritic patients.

Because of his age, 200 milligrams a day were administered to young Joe. In addition, he was given gold salts, one of the most prominent remedies available today.

• • •

WITHIN a short time, all four of the patients showed encouraging signs of improvement. One of the women, Mrs. Marion Ockford, 52, who had been unable to walk when the experiments began, was able to discard her wheelchair for the first time in months. In 10 days, most of her pain had disappeared and she was walking about almost normally.

The pain, swelling and stiffness in Joe's joints quickly disappeared. At the start of the experiments, he was barely able to lift a cup to his lips while stretched in bed. Within a few weeks he was on his feet and his weight had jumped from 50 to 81 pounds.

However, the amazing factor in Joe's recovery was yet to come. The researchers knew that cortisone had been found successful only while treatment was continued. As soon as the drug is stopped, the arthritic symptoms return.

They watched the youthful patient carefully in the weeks after April 23 when dosages of the drug were no longer administered to him. Then to their surprise and pleasure, pain, stiffness or swelling failed to return. Today, the curative effects prevail.

The researchers agree that it is too early yet to draw any conclusions from their work. Three or four patients who have been aided are not a sufficient number to state that an experiment is successful. They are happy, however, about one thing. They have turned a pain-wracked boy into one who looks happily to the future.

Joe Gill (above) as he appeared a year ago—completely incapacitated by arthritis, wracked with pain and barely able to lift a drinking cup. Joe (below) plays pool and baseball with boys his age today.

CORTISONE—ENEMY OF ARTHRITIS

Fifteen-Year-Old Youth, Others Show Remarkable Recovery

By ED MISURELL
Central Press Staff Writer

DETROIT—Just about a year ago, 15-year-old Joseph Gili was a hopeless cripple and unable to leave his bed. While other youngsters his age were in school, playing games and out having fun, Joe lay wracked by arthritic pains. To all appearances, he was doomed to to a life of invalidism.

Today, Joe is a picture of boyish happiness. He shoots pool, plays baseball with his friends, is back in school and is able to get about without the use of crutches or other mechanical aids.

What is responsible for the seeming miracle? The "wonder drug" cortisone and a farsighted group of researchers.

Fortunately for Joe he was one of four persons chosen as "guinea pigs" to participate in a special project under the direction of Dr. John Chase at Detroit's Receiving hospital.

The series of studies are part of a program sponsored by the Michigan chapter of the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation with funds from the United Foundation's Torch campaign.

The experiments are aimed at finding new methods to alleviate and possibly cure the suffering of the nation's 3,000,000 or more victims of one of mankind's most painful diseases.

As far back as man can remember, he has been afflicted with arthritis. Through the years fantastic remedies have been tried by countless thousands to overcome the effects of this malady. Centuries ago, doctors considered a bath in oil made from boiled hyenas as a certain cure.

* * *

SOME of today's "modern treatments" range from sulphur, milk and typhoid serums to bee or cobra venom. Virtually the entire collection of drugs on the pharmacist's shelf has been tossed into the fight against arthritis and yet there is no definite cure for the more than 30 different forms of this disease which have been identified.

Joe Gill (above) as he appeared a year ago—completely incapacitated by arthritis, wracked with pain and barely able to lift a drinking cup. Joe (below) plays pool and baseball with boys his age today.

One point physicians will agree upon is that treatment must be individualized. No two cases are alike, so each patient must be studied as a whole.

Physical, mental, functional and organic conditions must be recognized and possibly corrected to make any inroads on the disease itself. It may be necessary for the doctor to resort to many kinds of therapy since no treatment now in use succeeds in all cases.

When the experiments began at Detroit hospital, Joe, two women and a man were given very high dosages of cortisone. These were concentrated in fairly short periods.

The researchers under Dr. Chase were attempting to discover whether the symptoms of pain, swelling and stiffness would disappear faster and remain suppressed permanently, or for longer periods, than with normal maximum doses.

The adults taking part in the tests were treated with 500 milligrams of cortisone daily, an amount approximately five times the usual dose given to arthritic patients.

Because of his age, 200 milligrams a day were administered to young Joe. In addition, he was given gold salts, one of the most prominent remedies available today.

* * *

WITHIN a short time, all four of the patients showed encouraging signs of improvement. One of the women, Mrs. Marion Ockford, 52, who had been unable to walk when the experiments began, was able to discard her wheelchair for the first time in months. In 10 days, most of her pain had disappeared and she was walking about almost normally.

The pain, swelling and stiffness in Joe's joints quickly disappeared. At the start of the experiments, he was barely able to lift a cup to his lips while stretched in bed. Within a few weeks he was on his feet and his weight had jumped from 50 to 81 pounds.

However, the amazing factor in Joe's recovery was yet to come. The researchers knew that cortisone had been found successful only while treatment was continued. As soon as the drug is stopped, the arthritic symptoms return.

They watched the youthful patient carefully in the weeks after April 23 when dosages of the drug were no longer administered to him. Then to their surprise and pleasure, pain, stiffness or swelling failed to return. Today, the curative effects prevail.

The researchers agree that it is too early yet to draw any conclusions from their work. Three or four patients who have been aided are not a sufficient number to state that an experiment is successful. They are happy, however, about one thing. They have turned a pain-wracked boy into one who looks happily to the future.

Dial System Of Living Is 'Bad Thing'

New England Grocer Says Folks Failing To Gain Happiness

NEW YORK, Jan. 24—(AP)—Today's dial system of automatic living, under which we get our culture, entertainment and political opinions by pushing a TV button, has not improved either the happiness or the wisdom of the human race, in the opinion of Elbert Jones, 84.

He has been a country storekeeper in High Ridge, Stamford, Conn., since the first Saturday in October, 1890.

In his 62 years of merchandising, Mr. Jones has traveled the full course, from the days of barter and horse-and-wagon delivery to the era of frozen foods and self service. Now, from his vantage point of years and long observation, he says:

"When I first started in business $9 a week was considered good wages—and it was a six-day week and a 10-hour day. Nowadays folks make 10 times as much for half the work, but I don't think they're much better off.

"Now they have cars and washing machines and vacuum cleaners and refrigerators and radios and telephones and television sets—all the things to give them more time to spare. And the more time they have, the more entertainment they have to have, and the more gadgets they buy to supply that entertainment—and in the end they don't have any more fun than we did.

* * *

"PEOPLE USED to be easy to amuse. A hayride or a square dance was all a young fellow used to need to have a whale of a good time with his girl—and it didn't cost anything. Now people seem to measure their good times by what they cost—and buy everything on the installment plan.

"The way I see it, they don't have as much fun, and they owe more money."

Mr. Jones has been a square dance fan since the age of 16—but he gave it up at 80. Says he:

"I figure it isn't fair to ask a young girl to dance with me."

When he first bought the High Ridge store, business was strictly by barter. Mr. Jones explains:

"I used to get paid in eggs, pigs, butter, horses and baskets. Basket-making was one of the principal businesses in these parts then, and at one time I had 40 basket-makers working for me. I'd take the baskets in exchange for groceries and stock feed, and then I'd have to sell them before I could pay my bills."

Back in 1890 eggs were 12 cents a dozen, butter 25 cents a pound, round steak cost 10 cents a pound and porterhouse 16 cents.

His biggest sales were of flour, sugar and hay and grain, because most of his customers raised their own meat, eggs, butter and vegetables.

World Today

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24 — (AP)— Gen. Eisenhower's proposal that the nations of Europe unite is not new, even with Eisenhower. He suggested it last July and repeated it again this week.

The idea of European unity—one government, a kind of United States of Europe—has quite a history. It's gathered more steam in the last few years than ever before.

In 1930 the French proposed a European Federal Union. In 1940, when France was falling to the Nazis, Winston Churchill offered the French union and common citizenship with Britain. Again nothing happened.

When the war ended a number of groups organized to push the unity idea, through federation or in some other way.

Churchill formed a United Europe Committee in January, 1947; in March of that year the Independent League of European Federalists was created; this was followed by the Union of European Federalists in April, 1947; and in September, 1947, Count Richard Coudenhove Kalergi started the European Parliamentary Union.

* * *

IN THE MIDST of this — in March, 1947—the U. S. Senate approved a resolution offered by Senator Fulbright, Arkansas Democrat:

"Congress favors the creation of a United States of Europe within the framework of the United Nations."

In December, 1947, the various groups mentioned above got together as "the International Committee for the Coordination of Movements for European Unity."

At that time the countries of Western Europe were getting together in the economic field to decide what help they needed from the Marshall Plan.

In May, 1948, the "International Committee for Coordination" had its first conference and agreed there should be an European Assembly.

In August, 1948, it urged Britain, France, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg to take the lead in creating such an assembly.

The five nations set up a committee to work on the idea. It came up with this: A Council of Europe, which works like this:

A committee of the foreign ministers of each member's country, meeting in secret; and a consultative assembly to which the member nations send delegates who meet in public.

This council met first on Aug. 1, 1949, and has met a number of times since. Even so, the council as it stands has no real power. No member nation has to follow the assembly's recommendations.

* * *

STILL, the assembly is a place where the delegates can represent public opinion in Europe.

There have been various economic agreements between the nations of Europe. The biggest single step they've taken has been the creation of the North Atlantic Pact, of which this country and Canada are part. This is a military alliance. The members are pledged to help one another.

And out of the pact has come the European Army with Eisenhower in command, moving toward military unity.

This is still a long way from a United States of Europe and it seems pretty clear Churchill doesn't want to put Britain into a United States of Europe.

Eisenhower says he can understand this in Churchill since Britain has so many connections overseas with the other members of the British Commonwealth.

OSU To Rename Hall Honoring Late Director

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24—Memory of the late Dr. Charles C. Stillman, former director of the School of Social Administration at the Ohio State university, will be prepetuated with changing of the name of the present Social Administration Building to Stillman hall.

Announcement of the new name for the four-story structure was made by Dr. Howard L. Bevis, president of the university.

He said that the change was recommended by the faculty of the school and had the approval of the Board of Trustees.

Dr. Stillman who died Jan. 5, 1952, served the university for more than 20 years. He developed the country's first curriculum in community organization for health and welfare at Ohio State and was director of the School of Social Administration when the building now named for him wa sconstructed in 1939.

* * *

THE UNIVERSITY paid further honor to Dr. Stillman in 1948 when he was awarded the honorary degree doctor of law. He had retired from the directorship of the school in 1947.

A special "christening" ceremony for the new name of the building is contemplated later this school year, according to Prof. C. F. McNeil, present director of the school.

Field Days Group Chairman Named

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24—New chairman of the state advisory committee on conservation field days is Lester J. Miller, Worthington, agricultural agent for the Baltimore and Ohio railroad. He succeeds Earl McMunn, Cleveland, editor of the Ohio Farmer.

Tom C. Kennard, Columbus, state conservationist for the Soil Conservation Service was elected vice-chairman, the position formerly held by Miller. Francis C. Byrnes, Worthington, agricultural editor at Ohio State University, was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

One of the committee's functions is to select the site of the annual state conservation field day and state plowing matches. No announcement has yet been made of the 1952 site for these events.

Conservation Teacher Named

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24 — Dr. Charles A. Dambach, chief of the Ohio Division of Wildlife, announced this week the appointment of John Findlay of Cleveland as conservation education specialist for the division.

Mr. Findlay, now a teacher in the Cleveland school system, will work in the state department of education and will prepare materials which will be sent out to all schools in the state on conservation. Dr. Dambach said he will also be in charge of promoting the annual Conservation laboratory of Ohio school teachers.

His appointment has been approved by the Wildlife Council and he is expected to assume the post February 1.

Mr. Findlay has been interested in conservation work for many years and was instrumental in organizing classes on the subject in the Cleveland schools.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24 — (AP)— Gen. Eisenhower's proposal that the nations of Europe unite is not new, even with Eisenhower. He suggested it last July and repeated it again this week.

The idea of European unity—one government, a kind of United States of Europe—has quite a history. It's gathered more steam in the last few years than ever before.

In 1930 the French proposed a European Federal Union. In 1940, when France was falling to the Nazis, Winston Churchill offered the French union and common citizenship with Britain. Again nothing happened.

When the war ended a number of groups organized to push the unity idea, through federation or in some other way.

Churchill formed a United Europe Committee in January, 1947; in March of that year the Independent League of European Federalists was created; this was followed by the Union of European Federalists in April, 1947; and in September, 1947, Count Richard Coudenhove Kalergi started the European Parliamentary Union.

* * *

IN THE MIDST of this — in March, 1947—the U. S. Senate approved a resolution offered by Senator Fulbright, Arkansas Democrat:

"Congress favors the creation of a United States of Europe within the framework of the United Nations."

In December, 1947, the various groups mentioned above got together as "the International Committee for the Coordination of Movements for European Unity."

At that time the countries of Western Europe were getting together in the economic field to decide what help they needed from the Marshall Plan.

In May, 1948, the "International Committee for Coordination" had its first conference and agreed there should be an European Assembly.

In August, 1948, it urged Britain, France, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg to take the lead in creating such an assembly.

The five nations set up a committee to work on the idea. It came up with this: A Council of Europe, which works like this:

A committee of the foreign ministers of each member's country, meeting in secret; and a consultative assembly to which the member nations send delegates who meet in public.

This council met first on Aug. 1, 1949, and has met a number of times since. Even so, the council as it stands has no real power. No member nation has to follow the assembly's recommendations.

* * *

STILL, the assembly is a place where the delegates can represent public opinion in Europe.

There have been various economic agreements between the nations of Europe. The biggest single step they've taken has been the creation of the North Atlantic Pact, of which this country and Canada are part. This is a military alliance. The members are pledged to help one another.

And out of the pact has come the European Army with Eisenhower in command, moving toward military unity.

This is still a long way from a United States of Europe and it seems pretty clear Churchill doesn't want to put Britain into a United States of Europe.

Eisenhower says he can understand this in Churchill since Britain has so many connections overseas with the other members of the British Commonwealth.

OSU To Rename Hall Honoring Late Director

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24—Memory of the late Dr. Charles C. Stillman, former director of the School of Social Administration at the Ohio State university, will be prepetuated with changing of the name of the present Social Administration Building to Stillman hall.

Announcement of the new name for the four-story structure was made by Dr. Howard L. Bevis, president of the university.

He said that the change was recommended by the faculty of the school and had the approval of the Board of Trustees.

Dr. Stillman who died Jan. 5, 1952, served the university for more than 20 years. He developed the country's first curriculum in community organization for health and welfare at Ohio State and was director of the School of Social Administration when the building now named for him wa sconstructed in 1939.

* * *

THE UNIVERSITY paid further honor to Dr. Stillman in 1948 when he was awarded the honorary degree doctor of law. He had retired from the directorship of the school in 1947.

A special "christening" ceremony for the new name of the building is contemplated later this school year, according to Prof. C. F. McNeil, present director of the school.

Field Days Group Chairman Named

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24—New chairman of the state advisory committee on conservation field days is Lester J. Miller, Worthington, agricultural agent for the Baltimore and Ohio railroad. He succeeds Earl McMunn, Cleveland, editor of the Ohio Farmer.

Tom C. Kennard, Columbus, state conservationist for the Soil Conservation Service was elected vice-chairman, the position formerly held by Miller. Francis C. Byrnes, Worthington, agricultural editor at Ohio State University, was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

One of the committee's functions is to select the site of the annual state conservation field day and state plowing matches. No announcement has yet been made of the 1952 site for these events.

Conservation Teacher Named

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24 — Dr. Charles A. Dambach, chief of the Ohio Division of Wildlife, announced this week the appointment of John Findlay of Cleveland as conservation education specialist for the division.

Mr. Findlay, now a teacher in the Cleveland school system, will work in the state department of education and will prepare materials which will be sent out to all schools in the state on conservation. Dr. Dambach said he will also be in charge of promoting the annual Conservation laboratory of Ohio school teachers.

His appointment has been approved by the Wildlife Council and he is expected to assume the post February 1.

Mr. Findlay has been interested in conservation work for many years and was instrumental in organizing classes on the subject in the Cleveland schools.

Weekly Food Review

By Associated Press

NEW YORK, Jan. 24—(AP)—Retail prices of beef and pork items were trimmed a few cents a pound in many stores this week. But the reductions were not uniform, and in most cases they applied to the relatively higher-cost cuts like sirloin and porterhouse steaks, beef rib roasts and pork loin roasts.

Other meats and poultry appeared to be holding about unchanged generally. Butter and eggs were mostly steady at retail, but dealers said storms were hampering collections in the Midwest and might well result in a price uptrend by early next week.

In fresh produce, lettuce, carrots and new cabbage were getting a little cheaper as shipments from growing areas increased. Slightly lower also were escarole and endive, fresh peas, peppers and tomatoes. Grapefruit and tangerines were abundant and lower. Snap beans and cucumbers edged up slightly.

Prices of white potatoes were rolled back five to ten per cent on Saturday at the farm level, and then the rollback was modified slightly by price stabilizers in response to producers' protests. Retail prices, however, have not yet been affected.

• • •

WEEKEND FOOD specials advertised by many stores showed very little unanimity this week. They included steaks, beef roasts, pork loins, turkeys, loin lamb chops and lamb shoulders, roasting and frying chickens, sliced bacon, fresh and frozen fish, apples, tangerines, oranges, escarole and spinach.

The Agriculture Department stressed duck and prunes as most-plentiful foods for thrifty buying this week. Cold storage stocks of duck at the year-end totaled more than eight million pounds, the department said—more than one-third larger than average for that date.

The new president of the National Canners Association, Fred C. Heinz of Pittsburgh, said the price of canned foods has increased not more than five per cent in the last three years. He attributed this to efficient management and improved techniques in the face of rising costs.

Court Reverses Beating Judgment

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24 — (AP)—The Ohio Supreme Court has reversed a $7,500 judgment granted Stephen J. Vrabel for injuries suffered in a beating in the Acri Cafe, Youngstown.

Vrabel said Michael Acri assaulted him in the cafe Feb. 17, 1947. Vrabel sued Florence Acri because he said she was a joint proprietor of the cafe with her husband and failed to protect cafe customers. She contends Michael excluded her from any control over the cafe.

Lower courts held for Vrabel, but the supreme court held that an excluded proprietor can not be held accountable for assault on a patron.

Kingston Firm Facing Action

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24—(AP)—The Department of Agriculture has taken another legal step in its attempt to collect $110,000 for government-owned grain allegedly converted to use by private firms.

The department has taken legal action against Kingston Farmers Exchange of Kingston, O. It said th concern had wheat which the government stored under its $10 billion price support program. This is the 13th storage concern against which the department has taken legal action in recent months.

New Judge Sought

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24—(AP)—The northern district of Ohio would be authorized another federal judge in a bill introduced in Congress Wednesday by Chairman Celler (D-NY) of the House Judiciary Committee.

Weekly Food Review

By Associated Press

NEW YORK, Jan. 24—(AP)—Retail prices of beef and pork items were trimmed a few cents a pound in many stores this week. But the reductions were not uniform, and in most cases they applied to the relatively higher-cost cuts like sirloin and porterhouse steaks, beef rib roasts and pork loin roasts.

Other meats and poultry appeared to be holding about unchanged generally. Butter and eggs were mostly steady at retail, but dealers said storms were hampering collections in the Midwest and might well result in a price uptrend by early next week.

In fresh produce, lettuce, carrots and new cabbage were getting a little cheaper as shipments from growing areas increased. Slightly lower also were escarole and endive, fresh peas, peppers and tomatoes. Grapefruit and tangerines were abundant and lower. Snap beans and cucumbers edged up slightly.

Prices of white potatoes were rolled back five to ten per cent on Saturday at the farm level, and then the rollback was modified slightly by price stabilizers in response to producers' protests. Retail prices, however, have not yet been affected.

WEEKEND FOOD specials advertised by many stores showed very little unanimity this week. They included steaks, beef roasts, pork loins, turkeys, loin lamb chops and lamb shoulders, roasting and frying chickens, sliced bacon, fresh and frozen fish, apples, tangerines, oranges, escarole and spinach.

The Agriculture Department stressed duck and prunes as most-plentiful foods for thrifty buying this week. Cold storage stocks of duck at the year-end totaled more than eight million pounds, the department said—more than one-third larger than average for that date.

The new president of the National Canners Association, Fred C. Heinz of Pittsburgh, said the price of canned foods has increased not more than five per cent in the last three years. He attributed this to efficient management and improved techniques in the face of rising costs.

Court Reverses Beating Judgment

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24 — (AP)—The Ohio Supreme Court has reversed a $7,500 judgment granted Stephen J. Vrabel for injuries suffered in a beating in the Acri Cafe, Youngstown.

Vrabel said Michael Acri assaulted him in the cafe Feb. 17, 1947. Vrabel sued Florence Acri because he said she was a joint proprietor of the cafe with her husband and failed to protect cafe customers. She contends Michael excluded her from any control over the cafe.

Lower courts held for Vrabel, but the supreme court held that an excluded proprietor can not be held accountable for assault on a patron.

Kingston Firm Facing Action

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24—(AP)—The Department of Agriculture has taken another legal step in its attempt to collect $110,000 for government-owned grain allegedly converted to use by private firms.

The department has taken legal action against Kingston Farmers Exchange of Kingston, O. It said th concern had wheat which the government stored under its $10 billion price support program. This is the 13th storage concern against which the department has taken legal action in recent months.

The hotel asks $100,000 for alleged damage to hotel property, and $3 million punitive damages. The union has ben picketing the hotel since Nov. 13, but union officials have denied any knowledge of acts of vandalism.

IS PATIENCE A VIRTUE?

PATIENCE may be a virtue, but it certainly is running out for the United Nations cease-fire negotiators in Korea. For seven months they have been haggling with the Chinese Communists and getting exactly nowhere. One trivial matter after another has been brought up to block progress, and all roseate predictions of what was to eventuate from these meetings have proved to be mirages.

Continued negotiations with the Reds is held in some circles to be justified by the hope that fighting in Korea eventually will be ended, and the possibility of another world war minimized.

But a continued show of patience is defeating the purpose for which the negotiations were started. Against their better judgment, United Nations representatives have made one concession after another in the hope of a compromise agreement. Military men involved are disgusted and feel nothing further will be accomplished until the Communist armies have been put through the meat grinder again.

Patience, to the Oriental mind, is nothing more than a show of weakness. The Communists have gained the impression, as have many Americans, that UN representatives have orders from Washington to settle regardless of the price. There is a growing suspicion that appeasement is to be the new policy because of the approaching election.

The time is approaching when patience will no longer be a virtue, and when the American people will demand an end to quibbling.

U. S. SHARES RESOURCES

A BARTER DEAL is being cooked up between the United States and Britain by which this country is to get scarce aluminum and Britain will get scarce steel. Involved in the deal are scrap iron for the British and some tin and rubber for the United States.

This country's steel capacity has passed 100 million-ton-a-year mark. Britain's socialized steel mills turn out 16 million tons a year. This country's aluminum output is inadequate and Canada has some to spare.

The huge steel capacity of the United States is adequate to meet domestic need. Such essentials as highways and schools are clamoring for a larger share. But rearmament and support of the North Atlantic Alliance have insistent claims. If this country can obtain aluminum and other scarce materials by the barter method, the deal would seem to be advantageous.

If the boys in Washington have become better horse traders than they were in the past, that is.

Atomic Energy Commission's program to "civilize the atom" has taken another step forward. Permission has been granted to several research centers to start work on the sterilization of foods, using radioactive atomic waste materials.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Great problems are not lightly solved nor do the slogans that drive men to blind acceptance of postulates save us from error.

Ours is a time when events course by so madly that few stand their ground stubbornly against the sea of troubles. We seem to leap from incident to incident. Suddenly there is a new emergency and men die. Since 1914, great empires have collapsed and nations hardly known then are now world problems.

I never saw all this stated more accurately than in George F. Kennan's study, "American Diplomacy, 1900-1950." Kennan is to be our ambassador to Soviet Russia where he will have the advantage over many of his predecessors, at least, of knowing the language and having a knowledge of the people and country. This is what he wrote:

"I would like first to say a word about the total result of these two world wars in Europe. These wars were fought at the price of some tens of millions of lives, of untold physical destruction, of the destruction of the balance of forces on the continent—at the price of rendering western Europe dangerously, perhaps fatefully, vulnerable to Soviet power. Both wars were fought, really, with a view to changing Germany: to correcting her behavior, to making the Germans something different from what they were. Yet, today, if one were offered the chance of having back again the Germany of 1913—a Germany run by conservative but relatively moderate people, no Nazis and no Communists, a vigorous Germany, united and unoccupied, full of energy and confidence, able to play a part again in the balancing-off of Russian power in Europe—well, there would be objections to it from many quarters, and it wouldn't make everybody happy; but in many ways it wouldn't sound so bad, in comparison with our problems of today. Now, think what this means. When you tally up the total score of the two wars, in terms of their ostensible objective, you find that if there has been any gain at all, it is pretty hard to discern."

This is not hindsight, certainly not as it applies to World War II. Many warned of the dangers of that enterprise. Such men as Herbert Hoover, Hugh Gibson, Charles Lindbergh, and even this writer, cautioned, before and during that war, against the perils of opening the door to the Russians by destroying the Germans and the Japanese.

We were called fascists in those days. Yet, the course of events has proved beyond doubt, as Kennan says, that the gains, the advantages, the benefits of these wars are difficult to discern. Actually, there were none. Those wars have proved to be a total loss to civilization.

The question then arises, why otherwise sound persons never see the perils in their own decisions. Perhaps one answer is that without a grounding in history, too many are guided by the angers of the moment. It is like that swift madness that drives a man to destroy his home and family over a trifling quarrel with his wife which the provident person would resolve by understanding and weighing of consequences.

Hitler was an abhorrent personality, but before Hitler, it was possible to meet a defeated Germany with understanding. It was proposed during World War I to hang the Kaiser; out of that slogan came Hitler, and his successor is Stalin. And we are still in the course of a war with no end in sight.

Our problem is today, as it has been since 1914, to discover a formula for saving our civilization. We have tried war, appeasement, charity, diplomacy, the League of Nations, the United Nations.

These efforts have failed. The proof of their failure is that we are still at war.

New Drug Used For Skin Ills

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

RECENTLY in this column I mentioned some newly discovered drugs that are helpful in many skin disorders. One that has shown great promise in treating skin infections is an antibiotic called neomycin.

One of the good points about this drug is that people are rarely allergic to it, even though they may be allergic to other antibiotic drugs, such as, for example, penicillin.

Produces Allergy

Many times people with local skin infections are treated with an antibiotic ointment which later produces an allergy to that particular antibiotic. The allergic reactions make it impossible for these people to use the drug again if it is needed to treat a severe infection, such as an infection of an internal organ.

The solution to this problem may lie in using neomycin and other new antibiotics for skin infections. Neomycin is rarely used internally. When employed in cases of severe infection, it causes few allergic reactions.

Neomycin was discovered in 1949, and since that time has shown remarkable power in destroying numerous types of bacteria. It is now being used for infections of the skin and intestines, since it is not absorbed from these parts of the body.

Neomycin has proved very effective against infections of the outer ear, skin ulcers and many other forms of skin infections. Its results can be seen from one series of 95 patients with impetigo and other such skin conditions. All except seven responded to treatment with neomycin in from three to six days.

There are certain drawbacks, however, to giving neomycin internally over a long period of time. It was discovered that when so taken, this drug can cause damage to the kidneys, and has a slight tendency to cause deafness. Nevertheless, under certain circumstances, neomycin, given internally by means of injections into the muscles, may prove lifesaving.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

M. M. C.: My doctor tells me that I have a form of lung disease known as psittacosis. Can you tell me something about it?

Answer: Psittacosis is an infectious disease caused by a virus, and is usually transmitted by parrots or other birds such as pigeons, doves and sparrows. The symptoms generally are cough, fever and great weakness.

Some good results have been obtained by treating this disease with aureomycin, chloramphenicol and terramychin.

CHAPTER THIRTY

EDNA'S appearance at Barth's church had been his first inkling of her interest in Joe. Since then—since Anne's apparent definite rejection of him—Donald wondered if Edna had made any better progress. He was deeply concerned lest that happen, or had happened. For Edna, with the right man, would be all right. But with Joe—there was really nothing for her with Joe save certain hurt and possible disgrace.

Well, there was little or nothing he could do about it. He had tried, at various times, after school or meeting her on the street, to get her to give him an opening, but he had never succeeded. Nor had she ever returned for a second visit to the Little Stone Church. It was odd, his mind went on, that because of that one innocent talk with her, in full view of the outpouring congregation, he had suffered a public humiliation, after which there had started against him a tide of popular opinion that, from being only a sluggish undercurrent of which he had been faintly aware, had risen to the surface and was now boiling along in a most disturbing way. He knew it as well as he knew he was sitting here. He could only hope it was not as strong as the tide in his favor—for he had that, too.

His jaw tightened for a moment. But it was impossible to fight against intangibles. He had better not think about it—the slowly growing coolness here and there, the pricking questions, the slurring remarks. He had better stick to a review of his teaching. That had been all right, anyway. Yes, in spite of some of the letters from parents that he had received.

Barth had said, "Look out, Donald. You'll chop off your own head."

And he had replied, with heat, "I don't care! I've seen my students come alive. They're thinking!"

"I know! I know! Our greatest national resource is our citizens, and they must be lifted to the highest possible level. But slowly, my boy. Slowly."

However, slowness had not been in him. His passionate zeal for his work had carried him often past the point of caution. Anyway, he thought now, he had his classes in the palm of his hand, and it had been easy this past month to swing them over to the study of economics and, through that, to their larger relationship to America. How well, he had asked, holding the imaginary jobs they had chosen last fall, which would bring them incomes of two, three and four thousand dollars—how well could a family of four live? They had delighted in working out budgets for that. And, thus eased into a view of various standards of living by seeing their personal relationship to them, it had not been difficult to hold their interest while he compared living today with living a hundred years ago, and while he explained how these differences had been brought about through the Industrial Revolution and the division of labor...

"I've finished, Mr. Kent. May I be excused?"

"Yes, Miss Strong."

Carlotta's heels clicking up the aisle. A general stirring and stretching. A loudly whispered, "How did you ever get through so soon?" Carlotta's shy sweet smile as she laid her paper on Donald's desk, and her clear answer to his low-spoken question as to what she thought of the examination.

"Oh, very fair!"

He nodded. She went out. The class returned to its work, and he to his thoughts.

So much ground he had covered with these young people! Booms. Depressions. The economy of a nation geared to war. He had made them begin to understand all these things. And the complicated pattern of business. And the part played by competition. And the law of supply and demand. And the way unemployment in bad times or in times of strike could affect them. Then they had explored the Fair Deal. And the New Deal.

As of today, he told himself, the confines of their minds had been enormously stretched. They realized that they were members of more than a family and more than a town. They knew now that they were a part—and a vital part—of this great United States of America. That it affected them as they could affect it. That they had a voice, or soon would have, in the management of its affairs.

A bell rang. The period was over. At once there was a babel of voices. He sat, his blue eyes keen and amused and understanding, as they all filed up and, with various sounds as of dying, laid their papers before him. Soon the halls were a bedlam of shouts and rushing feet. For school was over for the day.

• • •

Carl Strong looked up from his desk as Don appeared in his doorway. "Come in," he said.

The school superintendent was a small man with a mild voice and mild round brown eyes behind glasses in a mild round face. There was nothing impressive about him. But Don, in his first interview with him way back last spring, had discovered that he was an educator in the finest sense of the word. And through the year this impression had deepened.

Courage was not apparent in him, yet he never hesitated to express himself plainly before the School Board. He was not to be cowed by numbers against him or by the fear of losing his job—for in Crestwood the Superintendent had no tenure. He was retained only as long as his services were considered beneficial to the school system. Unmindful of this, Carl would—and often had—fought an opposition presented by reason of ignorance, miserliness, or prejudice to gain some advantage for his staff of teachers which he believed to be their just due, or to secure some improvement for his schools. He was far above politics himself, although he was aware of their devious workings and subtle power. And he had maintained his position in the town in spite of, not because of, his integrity and high purpose. For this he could thank those wisest and most influential citizens who appreciated his worth.

He believed firmly in three things—God, discipline and justice. And by these he ruled his personal life, his family, and his schools. Those who knew him loved him for his warmth and gentle kindness. But few knew him outside of his office, since he cherished the privacy of his home. His students trusted and feared him. The School Board gave him a grudging respect. Crestwood, as a whole, was proud of him, since because of him they could be proud of their schools. Probably only one man actively disliked him, and that was Alvin Melick, whose dislike was rooted in a narrow jealousy of his prestige and resentment of his social exclusiveness.

He nodded now toward the chair by his desk, and Donald sat down. Always deliberate in speech, Carl picked up a pencil and began tapping it lightly on the blotter before him, his eyes fixed on its bobbing point. Don waited. Presently Carl laid down the pencil, tipped back his chair, grasped its arms in a decisive manner, and looked directly into the face of the young man before him.

"You," he said, in his mild way, "are the subject of more controversy in this school—and this town—than I have ever encountered before in my nineteen years of service here."

"I know—" Donald began, but Carl held up his hand.

IS PATIENCE A VIRTUE?

PATIENCE may be a virtue, but it certainly is running out for the United Nations cease-fire negotiators in Korea. For seven months they have been haggling with the Chinese Communists and getting exactly nowhere. One trivial matter after another has been brought up to block progress, and all roseate predictions of what was to eventuate from these meetings have proved to be mirages.

Continued negotiations with the Reds is held in some circles to be justified by the hope that fighting in Korea eventually will be ended, and the possibility of another world war minimized.

But a continued show of patience is defeating the purpose for which the negotiations were started. Against their better judgment, United Nations representatives have made one concession after another in the hope of a compromise agreement. Military men involved are disgusted and feel nothing further will be accomplished until the Communist armies have been put through the meat grinder again.

Patience, to the Oriental mind, is nothing more than a show of weakness. The Communists have gained the impression, as have many Americans, that UN representatives have orders from Washington to settle regardless of the price. There is a growing suspicion that appeasement is to be the new policy because of the approaching election.

The time is approaching when patience will no longer be a virtue, and when the American people will demand an end to quibbling.

U. S. SHARES RESOURCES

A BARTER DEAL is being cooked up between the United States and Britain by which this country is to get scarce aluminum and Britain will get scarce steel. Involved in the deal are scrap iron for the British and some tin and rubber for the United States.

This country's steel capacity has passed 100 million-ton-a-year mark. Britain's socialized steel mills turn out 16 million tons a year. This country's aluminum output is inadequate and Canada has some to spare.

The huge steel capacity of the United States is adequate to meet domestic need. Such essentials as highways and schools are clamoring for a larger share. But rearmament and support of the North Atlantic Alliance have insistent claims. If this country can obtain aluminum and other scarce materials by the barter method, the deal would seem to be advantageous.

If the boys in Washington have become better horse traders than they were in the past, that is.

Atomic Energy Commission's program to "civilize the atom" has taken another step forward. Permission has been granted to several research centers to start work on the sterilization of foods, using radioactive atomic waste materials.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Great problems are not lightly solved nor do the slogans that drive men to blind acceptance of postulates save us from error.

Ours is a time when events course by so madly that few stand their ground stubbornly against the sea of troubles. We seem to leap from incident to incident. Suddenly there is a new emergency and men die. Since 1914, great empires have collapsed and nations hardly known then are now world problems.

I never saw all this stated more accurately than in George F. Kennan's study, "American Diplomacy, 1900-1950." Kennan is to be our ambassador to Soviet Russia where he will have the advantage over many of his predecessors, at least, of knowing the language and having a knowledge of the people and country. This is what he wrote:

"I would like first to say a word about the total result of these two world wars in Europe. These wars were fought at the price of some tens of millions of lives, of untold physical destruction, of the destruction of the balance of forces on the continent—at the price of rendering western Europe dangerously, perhaps fatefully, vulnerable to Soviet power. Both wars were fought, really, with a view to changing Germany: to correcting her behavior, to making the Germans something different from what they were. Yet, today, if one were offered the chance of having back again the Germany of 1913—a Germany run by conservative but relatively moderate people, no Nazis and no Communists, a vigorous Germany, united and unoccupied, full of energy and confidence, able to play a part again in the balancing-off of Russian power in Europe—well, there would be objections to it from many quarters, and it wouldn't make everybody happy; but in many ways it wouldn't sound so bad, in comparison with our problems of today. Now, think what this means. When you tally up the total score of the two wars, in terms of their ostensible objective, you find that if there has been any gain at all, it is pretty hard to discern."

This is not hindsight, certainly not as it applies to World War II. Many warned of the dangers of that enterprise. Such men as Herbert Hoover, Hugh Gibson, Charles Lindbergh, and even this writer, cautioned, before and during that war, against the perils of opening the door to the Russians by destroying the Germans and the Japanese.

We were called fascists in those days. Yet, the course of events has proved beyond doubt, as Kennan says, that the gains, the advantages, the benefits of these wars are difficult to discern. Actually, there were none. Those wars have proved to be a total loss to civilization.

The question then arises, why otherwise sound persons never see the perils in their own decisions. Perhaps one answer is that without a grounding in history, too many are guided by the angers of the moment. It is like that swift madness that drives a man to destroy his home and family over a trifling quarrel with his wife which the provident person would resolve by understanding and weighing of consequences.

Hitler was an abhorrent personality, but before Hitler, it was possible to meet a defeated Germany with understanding. It was proposed during World War I to hang the Kaiser; out of that slogan came Hitler, and his successor is Stalin. And we are still in the course of a war with no end in sight.

Our problem is today, as it has been since 1914, to discover a formula for saving our civilization. We have tried war, appeasement, charity, diplomacy, the League of Nations, the United Nations.

These efforts have failed. The proof of their failure is that we are still at war.

New Drug Used For Skin Ills

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

RECENTLY in this column I mentioned some newly discovered drugs that are helpful in many skin disorders. One that has shown great promise in treating skin infections is an antibiotic called neomycin.

One of the good points about this drug is that people are rarely allergic to it, even though they may be allergic to other antibiotic drugs, such as, for example, penicillin.

Produces Allergy

Many times people with local skin infections are treated with an antibiotic ointment which later produces an allergy to that particular antibiotic. The allergic reactions make it impossible for these people to use the drug again if it is needed to treat a severe infection, such as an infection of an internal organ.

The solution to this problem may lie in using neomycin and other new antibiotics for skin infections. Neomycin is rarely used internally. When employed in cases of severe infection, it causes few allergic reactions.

Neomycin was discovered in 1949, and since that time has shown remarkable power in destroying numerous types of bacteria. It is now being used for infections of the skin and intestines, since it is not absorbed from these parts of the body.

Neomycin has proved very effective against infections of the outer ear, skin ulcers and many other forms of skin infections. Its results can be seen from one series of 95 patients with impetigo and other such skin conditions. All except seven responded to treatment with neomycin in from three to six days.

There are certain drawbacks, however, to giving neomycin internally over a long period of time. It was discovered that when so taken, this drug can cause damage to the kidneys, and has a slight tendency to cause deafness. Nevertheless, under certain circumstances, neomycin, given internally by means of injections into the muscles, may prove lifesaving.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

M. M. C.: My doctor tells me that I have a form of lung disease known as psittacosis. Can you tell me something about it?

Answer: Psittacosis is an infectious disease caused by a virus, and is usually transmitted by parrots or other birds such as pigeons, doves and sparrows. The symptoms generally are cough, fever and great weakness.

Some good results have been obtained by treating this disease with aureomycin, chloramphenicol and terramychin.

The PARSON

CHAPTER THIRTY

EDNA'S appearance at Barth's church had been his first inkling of her interest in Joe. Since then—since Anne's apparent definite rejection of him—Donald wondered if Edna had made any better progress. He was deeply concerned lest that happen, or had happened. For Edna, with the right man, would be all right. But with Joe—there was really nothing for her with Joe save certain hurt and possible disgrace.

Well, there was little or nothing he could do about it. He had tried, at various times, after school or meeting her on the street, to get her to give him an opening, but he had never succeeded. Nor had she ever returned for a second visit to the Little Stone Church. It was odd, his mind went on, that because of that one innocent talk with her, in full view of the outpouring congregation, he had suffered a public humiliation, after which there had started against him a tide of popular opinion that, from being only a sluggish undercurrent of which he had been faintly aware, had risen to the surface and was now boiling along in a most disturbing way. He knew it as well as he knew he was sitting here. He could only hope it was not as strong as the tide in his favor—for he had that, too.

His jaw tightened for a moment. But it was impossible to fight against intangibles. He had better not think about it—the slowly growing coolness here and there, the pricking questions, the slurring remarks. He had better stick to a review of his teaching. That had been all right, anyway. Yes, in spite of some of the letters from parents that he had received.

Barth had said, "Look out, Donald. You'll chop off your own head."

And he had replied, with heat, "I don't care! I've seen my students come alive. They're thinking!"

"I know! I know! Our greatest national resource is our citizens, and they must be lifted to the highest possible level. But slowly, my boy. Slowly."

However, slowness had not been in him. His passionate zeal for his work had carried him often past the point of caution. Anyway, he thought now, he had his classes in the palm of his hand, and it had been easy this past month to swing them over to the study of economics and, through that, to their larger relationship to America. How well, he had asked, holding the imaginary jobs they had chosen last fall, which would bring them incomes of two, three and four thousand dollars—how well could a family of four live? They had delighted in working out budgets for that. And, thus eased into a view of various standards of living by seeing their personal relationship to them, it had not been difficult to hold their interest while he compared living today with living a hundred years ago, and while he explained how these differences had been brought about through the Industrial Revolution and the division of labor...

"I've finished, Mr. Kent. May I be excused?"

"Yes, Miss Strong."

Carlotta's heels clicking up the aisle. A general stirring and stretching. A loudly whispered, "How did you ever get through so soon?" Carlotta's shy sweet smile as she laid her paper on Donald's desk, and her clear answer to his low-spoken question as to what she thought of the examination.

"Oh, very fair!"

He nodded. She went out. The class returned to its work, and he to his thoughts.

So much ground he had covered with these young people! Booms. Depressions. The economy of a nation geared to war. He had made them begin to understand all these things. And the complicated pattern of business. And the part played by competition. And the law of supply and demand. And the way unemployment in bad times or in times of strike could affect them. Then they had explored the Fair Deal. And the New Deal.

As of today, he told himself, the confines of their minds had been enormously stretched. They realized that they were members of more than a family and more than a town. They knew now that they were a part—and a vital part—of this great United States of America. That it affected them as they could affect it. That they had a voice, or soon would have, in the management of its affairs.

A bell rang. The period was over. At once there was a babel of voices. He sat, his blue eyes keen and amused and understanding, as they all filed up and, with various sounds as of dying, laid their papers before him. Soon the halls were a bedlam of shouts and rushing feet. For school was over for the day.

* * *

Carl Strong looked up from his desk as Don appeared in his doorway. "Come in," he said.

The school superintendent was a small man with a mild voice and mild round brown eyes behind glasses in a mild round face. There was nothing impressive about him. But Don, in his first interview with him way back last spring, had discovered that he was an educator in the finest sense of the word. And through the year this impression had deepened.

Courage was not apparent in him, yet he never hesitated to express himself plainly before the School Board. He was not to be cowed by numbers against him or by the fear of losing his job—for in Crestwood the Superintendent had no tenure. He was retained only as long as his services were considered beneficial to the school system. Unmindful of this, Carl would—and often had—fought an opposition presented by reason of ignorance, miserliness, or prejudice to gain some advantage for his staff of teachers which he believed to be their just due, or to secure some improvement for his schools. He was far above politics himself, although he was aware of their devious workings and subtle power. And he had maintained his position in the town in spite of, not because of, his integrity and high purpose. For this he could thank those wisest and most influential citizens who appreciated his worth.

He believed firmly in three things—God, discipline and justice. And by these he ruled his personal life, his family, and his schools. Those who knew him loved him for his warmth and gentle kindness. But few knew him outside of his office, since he cherished the privacy of his home. His students trusted and feared him. The School Board gave him a grudging respect. Crestwood, as a whole, was proud of him, since because of him they could be proud of their schools. Probably only one man actively disliked him, and that was Alvin Melick, whose dislike was rooted in a narrow jealousy of his prestige and resentment of his social exclusiveness.

He nodded now toward the chair by his desk, and Donald sat down. Always deliberate in speech, Carl picked up a pencil and began tapping it lightly on the blotter before him, his eyes fixed on its bobbing point. Don waited. Presently Carl laid down the pencil, tipped back his chair, grasped its arms in a decisive manner, and looked directly into the face of the young man before him.

"You," he said, in his mild way, "are the subject of more controversy in this school—and this town—than I have ever encountered before in my nineteen years of service here."

"I know—" Donald began, but Carl held up his hand.

"I engaged you because I felt you would be a good teacher. My close—and perhaps, to you, annoying—supervision of your work has corroborated my belief in you. There is no uneasiness or uncertainty in you as to the purpose of education and your own methods of accomplishing that purpose." He paused.

"Och, now," wailed Mrs. C., "this never would have happened if Mr. Callahan were alive. But he's gone to the happy hunting ground." "How do you like that?" demanded the neighbor. "Here we are suffering, and he's off enjoying himself!"

A plutocrat's spoiled son reluctantly submitted to an aptitude test. His responses provoked this report from the head of the examining board: "Your tests prove conclusively that your best opportunities lie in a field where your father holds an extremely influential position."

Hollywood sources report that Cecil B. De Mille, producer of a score of lush spectacles like "Samson and Delilah," had his ego severely deflated one night last week. It seems he had a dream, and only six thousand people appeared in it.

Freshmen football teams in the Southwest Conference are limited to five games a season.

The University of Arizona football team will lose only four seniors by graduation.

The 1952 March Of Dimes Being Aided By Hundreds Of Parents All Over Ohio

'Iron Lung Cost Is $20 Per Day'

The 1952 March of Dimes means much more than a money raising effort to hundreds of mothers and fathers throughout Ohio. They know, from first-hand experience, the wonders March of Dimes funds can perform when dreaded polio strikes.

Take Mrs. J. Frank Basham, of Mt. Auburn, for example. Back in August, 1946, polio hit four of her 10 children.

Three younger children, Louis, Donald, and David, were hospitalized for 21 days. They show no ill effects today. But the fourth child, who requested that her name be withheld, was hospitalized for many months and was crippled for several years. She feels the effects of polio yet.

Today the Basham family is throwing all its efforts behind Mrs. Basham's job as a district captain for the Parents' March on Polio, a special feature of the month-long March of Dimes that began Jan. 2.

"We all feel that this is one way we can help repay the polio fund for the help it gave us when we needed it," Mrs. Basham explained.

The March of Dimes campaign in Wellsville is headed by James E. Fogo, whose eight-year-old daughter, Janice, battled polio last fall and made a full recovery. Marlan W. Winters, whose son, Tommy, died of infantile paralysis last Sept. 23, is co-chairman of the campaign in Muskingum County.

Six years ago Susan Armbrecht, of Cleveland Heights, was left helpless when polio struck all her limbs. Susan, now 12, still is in an iron lung.

Her mother, Mrs. James Armbrecht, is co-chairman of the March of Dimes campaign in Cleveland Heights.

"I don't know what we would have done without help from the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis," Mrs. Armbrecht said. "It has cost thousands of dollars. The iron lung alone cost $20 a day. What little I can do to help the drive in Cleveland Heights cannot nearly repay for the service that has been given to our family."

E. J. Kreischer, of Bowling Green, has a full-time job as business manager of Bowling Green State University. Still he is glad to spend hours of his own time explaining the work of the National Foundation and appealing for contributions for the March of Dimes.

His son, 18-year-old Jim Kreischer, has been completely paralyzed by polio since November, 1950. Only in the past few months has he been able to leave a respirator for any length of time.

Young Kreischer, a star athlete while in Bowling Green High School, is anxious to do what he can to help the March of Dimes. He recently dictated a letter to his nurse, urging Ohio high schools and colleges to play "just one" basketball game this season for the benefit of the March of Dimes.

All over the state there are mothers and fathers, some crippled with polio themselves, asking from their hearts that the 1952 March of Dimes be successful. They know that the dimes and the dollars contributed today may save the life of someone else's child tomorrow.

'Hard Times' Party Held In Church

"Hard Times" came knocking at the door of First Methodist church Wednesday evening when members of Wesley-Wed Class, dressed in an odd assortment of old clothes held their monthly social session.

Robert Wood and Mrs. Dave McDonald were awarded prizes as the "best dressed" and Mrs. Stephen Dowler won a prize in a brand name guessing contest.

Library Bulletin Solves 'No-Reading-Time' Trouble

In answer to the plea, "I don't have time to read a book," is an article in the Wilson Library Bulletin for December. The substance of it is: "You'd have time to read, if you would—

"Eliminate all unnecessary use of the telephone.

"Use the radio and television only for the best programs. Why waste time on something you don't really want to see or hear?

"Read during the much needed afternoon rest. Keep books within reach of your bed and favorite chair.

"Read on the bus. You see too many people anyhow.

"Keep a book in the car pocket to read at every waiting moment. It is shocking to realize the accumulated time that chauffurmothers waste.

"Spend less time watching the neighbors.

"Take a book to the beauty shop for those under-the-drier minutes when you can't hear conversation anyway.

"Start the rest of your family reading by exposing them to carefully chosen books of especial appeal to each, so that all of you lose yourselves in a good book for a part of your evenings."

And so for those extra reading hours you are certain to have if you follow even a part of these suggestions, the Pickaway County Library offers the following suggestions for reading:

Wouk's "Caine Mutiny" — still tops on the fiction best-seller list throughout the country; "Golden Road", by Bourne, a story of the building of the railroad across the Isthmus of Panama during the frantic gold-rush days; and "Ragged Ones", by Burke Davis, a story of young love overshadowed b the Revolutionary campaign that led to the fall of Yorktown.

"The Viking", by Marshall; Nathan's "Married Look", by the man who wrote the delightful, "Portrait of Jenny", "Jim Thorpe's Story", of America's greatest athlete, by Gene Schoor; "I'm Telling You Kids for the Last Time", by Parke Cummings—a must for all parents; "North With the Spring", by Edwin Teale and "The Ape In Our House", by Hayes.

"Cokesbury Show Book", by Fite; "Wedding Anniversary Celebrations", by Plumb and "Showers for Brides and Babies", by Pond are three books which answer the ever recurring questions of how to entertain for such occasions.

Also recommended are, "Tara's Healing", by Giles and "Trouble in Tombstone", by Hopkins.

Younger children will enjoy, "Just Like David", by De Angeli; "Page Boy for King Arthur", by Stone; "All of a Kind Family", by Taylor; "On My Honor", by Vetter, and "Graymouse Family", by Leonard.

Those of high school age will like to read "Girl Called Hank", by Walden; "Fiddling Cowboy in Search of Gold", by Regli; "Big Foot Wallace of the Texas Rangers", by Garst; "Skyroad to Myster", by Knight, "Ban-Joe and Grey Eagle", by Clark McMeekin, and "Hawk of Hawk Clan", by Johansen.

These books and many others may be borrowed from the Pickaway County Main Library or from its Bookmobile.

Inventory Of Soil Needs Important To The Farmer

Few farmers will start a day's work with a tractor without checking its fuel tank.

But continuing to farm without checking soil needs is even more foolish than failure to check your fuel tank, according to Larry Best, Pickaway County extension agent.

"If you are not interested in how much money you have in the bank or how much feed you have available for feeding, then you could not be interested in a soil inventory," Best stated.

"A soil inventory resembles any other inventory. It determines and lists soil nutrients available. It will give the farmer an idea of when a future supply will have to be built up; what crops can be grown with available supplies; what yields can be expected; and what nutrients may be limiting crop yields.

* * *

"ALTHOUGH A LIMITED nutrient supply does not mean the next crop will fail, it does mean that yields will be limited," Best continued. "As nutrient supplies decrease in soils, yields get smaller."

Best points out that the soils inventory laboratory in Ohio State university identifies soils as to type. It also determines how much organic matter, lime, phosphorus and potassium are needed for top yields.

Farmers can obtain a soil inventory by following instructions available in county agents' offices.

Pigs Luckier Than People; Vitamins Less

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24—Pigs are luckier than people—their vitamins cost less.

"If all the vitamins in an acre of alfalfa were purchased in pill or tablet form they would cost more than $800," Herbert M. Barnes, extension specialist at Ohio State university, said today.

He pointed out that farmers who have alfalfa can supply those vitamins to their pigs for the cost of a temporary fence.

Now is the time to string temporary fence in meadows where pigs will go this spring.

* * *

BARNES SAID, "We know he (the farmer) is going to use meadow because a productive alfalfa or clover stand will help grow thrifty pigs at a lower feed cost than other types of feed." Fence that is put up now will not require time during a busier season.

An acre of alfalfa is worth the market price of 350 pounds of pork when it is grazed by pigs. Barnes said a hog raiser would have to supply about ¾ ton of mixed feed to substitute for an alfalfa acre.

How's your date life—smooth and rosy? If not, perhaps today's answers will help solve your problems.

"Can you advise me? I am a boy of 18 and have been out with several girls, but lately there's been one in particular. But I don't seem to care for her; she's just not my type. Recently I met a girl I really like and she seems to like me very much, too. But I haven't told the first girl anything about it. I just can't seem to tell her I'm no longer interested. How should I go about it?"

Ans.—Some things don't have to be said. "Actions speak louder than words," so simply stop dating the first girl who isn't your type. If she phones you with suggestions for date, you can alway have previous plans. Be courteous—no need of being rude—and she'll catch on after a while. Since you're not engaged to her, you're free to date whom you please without mentioning it to her.

"We are two high school girls with a problem. Is it proper to send a boy a birthday gift?"

Ans.—Boys are the ones to do the first gift-giving. Unless he has already gift-ed you, send him a friendly greeting card. If he has given you a gift for your birthday or at Christmas, give him one by all means. It shouldn't be expensive.

Pennsy Slashes Weight Limits

ROCHESTER, Pa., Jan. 24—(AP)—Pennsylvania has followed Ohio's lead in reducing weight limits allowed on feeder roads at the western end of the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

The Pennsylvania Highway Department put a 20,000-pound limit on Routes 168, 351 and 551, because heavy trucks from the new western extension of the turnpike were damaging the roads. Ohio put similar restrictions on roads in the Petersburg area, where the turnpike ends.

Dice were invented some 2,000 years before playing cards.

SANTA GERTRUDIS CATTLE

Founder Of New Breed Presents Bull To Station

WOOSTER, Jan. 24—Santa Gertrudis cattle, called the "only distinctive breed developed in the United States" and "the first new beef breed in 100 years," soon will be used in tests at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station.

L. L. Rummell, director of the station, announced that Robert J. Kleberg, Jr., founder of the breed and president of King Ranch, Kingsville, Texas, has presented the station with a bull calf of the new breed. Kleberg further offered the exchange of bulls "from time to time to further your experiment."

T. S. Sutton, chairman of the animal science department, said the bull first will be used in two projects. Sutton said, "Because of the rapid growing characteristics of the Santa Gertrudis breed, we feel that the use of sires of this breed in our project at the Carpenter substation should prove advantageous."

• • •

AT THE CARPENTER experiment farm, heifers of dairy and beef ancestry have been bred to Hereford and Angus bulls. The project has been directed to improvement of cattle in southeastern Ohio and development of a cattle program that fits grassland farming. Sutton said station animal scientists would like to compare weaning weights of calves from Santa Gertrudis bulls with weights of calves from Hereford and Angus bulls.

In another test at Wooster, offspring from the Santa Gertrudis bull and Hereford heifers will be compared with calves from inbred and outbred Hereford sires in feedlot performance.

Santa Gertrudis is a breed developed from a cross between Indian Brahman cattleand Shorthorns. First cross was made in 1920. Since that time, Kleberg has been working to develop what is now recognized as the Santa Gertrudis breed. Typical of the breed is a deep red coloring and little or no hump that is characteristic of Brahman cattle.

The bull calf is to arrive at the station this week from a farm near Lexington, Kentucky. Some King Ranch breeding stock has been moved to Kentucky to escape danger of hoof and mouth disease.

Central Ohio Breeders Have Approved Sire

An Ayrshire sire, Sharon View K. Token Boy, owned by Central Ohio Breeding association, Columbus, has been given the high rating of Approved according to the Ayrshire Breeders' Association Executive Secretary, C. T. Conklin of Brandon, Vt.

The Ayrshire Approved rating has been given to the sire in recognition of the superior producing ability of his daughters when compared to their dams.

The Central Ohio Breeding association sire qualified on his seven daughters that average 10422 lbs. of 4.30 per cent milk and 448 lbs. of butterfat.

The Approved Ayrshire Sire Plan that was adopted in 1940 by the Ayrshire Breeders' Association has enabled Ayrshire Breeders all over the country to improve their herds and increase milk production.

The chimpanzee is the animal rated next to man in intelligence.

SANTA GERTRUDIS CATTLE

Founder Of New Breed Presents Bull To Station

WOOSTER, Jan. 24—Santa Gertrudis cattle, called the "only distinctive breed developed in the United States" and "the first new beef breed in 100 years," soon will be used in tests at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station.

L. L. Rummell, director of the station, announced that Robert J. Kleberg, Jr., founder of the breed and president of King Ranch, Kingsville, Texas, has presented the station with a bull calf of the new breed. Kleberg further offered the exchange of bulls "from time to time to further your experiment."

T. S. Sutton, chairman of the animal science department, said the bull first will be used in two projects. Sutton said, "Because of the rapid growing characteristics of the Santa Gertrudis breed, we feel that the use of sires of this breed in our project at the Carpenter substation should prove advantageous."

• • •

AT THE CARPENTER experiment farm, heifers of dairy and beef ancestry have been bred to Hereford and Angus bulls. The project has been directed to improvement of cattle in southeastern Ohio and development of a cattle program that fits grassland farming. Sutton said station animal scientists would like to compare weaning weights of calves from Santa Gertrudis bulls with weights of calves from Hereford and Angus bulls.

In another test at Wooster, offspring from the Santa Gertrudis bull and Hereford heifers will be compared with calves from inbred and outbred Hereford sires in feedlot performance.

Santa Gertrudis is a breed developed from a cross between Indian Brahman cattleand Shorthorns. First cross was made in 1920. Since that time, Kleberg has been working to develop what is now recognized as the Santa Gertrudis breed. Typical of the breed is a deep red coloring and little or no hump that is characteristic of Brahman cattle.

The bull calf is to arrive at the station this week from a farm near Lexington, Kentucky. Some King Ranch breeding stock has been moved to Kentucky to escape danger of hoof and mouth disease.

Central Ohio Breeders Have Approved Sire

An Ayrshire sire, Sharon View K. Token Boy, owned by Central Ohio Breeding association, Columbus, has been given the high rating of Approved according to the Ayrshire Breeders' Association Executive Secretary, C. T. Conklin of Brandon, Vt.

The Ayrshire Approved rating has been given to the sire in recognition of the superior producing ability of his daughters when compared to their dams.

The Central Ohio Breeding association sire qualified on his seven daughters that average 10422 lbs. of 4.30 per cent milk and 448 lbs. of butterfat.

The Approved Ayrshire Sire Plan that was adopted in 1940 by the Ayrshire Breeders' Association has enabled Ayrshire Breeders all over the country to improve their herds and increase milk production.

The chimpanzee is the animal rated next to man in intelligence.

Looking Ahead

By George Benson
President
Hardin College

One morning in 1844, a grain miller in De Kalb County, Ind., was walking toward his mill. It was election day but he had work to do that would keep him busy all day and he had decided to forego casting his ballot. Before he reached his mill, however, he was stopped by friends who persuaded him to go to the polls.

It so happened that the winning candidate for the De Kalb County position in the Indiana Legislature was by just one vote—and the miller had voted for him.

When the Indiana Legislature convened the De Kalb man cast the deciding vote that sent Edward Allen Hannegan to the United States Senate. (Until 1913, the legislatures elected U. S. Senators.) And then in the U. S. Senate the question of statehood for Texas came to vote. The result was a tie vote but Senator Hannegan, who was presiding as "president pro tempore" of the Senate, cast the deciding vote, from the chair, in favor of admitting Texas.

These incidents clearly demonstrate the potential power of a single vote. The miller's act of voting affected the destiny of the whole state of Texas. What happened in the last presidential election in Ohio is another illustration.

* * *

OHIO'S 25 ELECTORAL votes went to the successful presidential candidate in 1948 by so slim a margin that a single additional vote in each of Ohio's voting precincts could have reversed that result. One single person who didn't vote in each voting precinct thus had the power to change the political destiny of Ohio, and it might well have affected the destiny of the nation or even the world.

In that 1948 presidential election only half the American people of voting age voted—48 million out of a possible 95 million. The percentage of people who vote regularly in all elections—local, state and national—is drastically lower: only 20 per cent, or one out of every five of the eligible, vote regularly.

These and other equally challenging facts are presented in a new Harding College "flannel-board" presentation entitled "the Power of Your Vote."

The purpose of this new illustrated talk is to get more people to vote and to assist all voters to become intelligent voters in their measuring of candidates and issues. It is the third of a Harding College series designed to develop a better informed and more responsible citizenry throughout the nation.

More than 2,000 "flannelboard" speakers scattered through the 48 states, including clergymen, industrial training directors, civic club members, club women, labor union stewards, teachers, etc., have been giving these "flannel-board" talks. Since the recent public announcement of "The Power of Your Vote" a great many local organizations have begun to use it, several national organizations are advocating it as a "tool" to get out the vote. It is non-partisan.

* * *

IT IS DEVELOPED in the Harding College Freedom Forums, with a number of people working together on it.

Probably the most appealing feature of "The Power of Your Vote" is the suggestion of a "Tag Day" on all election days. Each citizen who votes would wear a little red-white-and - blue lapel tag bearing the challenge: "I Have Voted! Have You?" Those who didn't vote would thus be conspicuous and feel very "sheepish."

Some local group—a woman's club, patriotic society, chamber of commerce or other civic club—could sponsor "Tag Day" whenever an election is held, local, state or national. Newspapers would cooperate with helpful publicity. The tags would be given out at the polling places after each citizen voted.

Anything that will stimulate more people to vote and to want to know more about candidates and issues would be worth trying. The act of voting, and voting intelligently, is the most important single responsibility of American citizenship. The surest way we have of improving the character and usefulness of our government, on all levels, is for every citizen to inform himself on the issues and candidates and vote on the basis of what's best for the community, state and nation.

The percentage of people who vote regularly in all elections—local, state and national—is drastically lower: only 20 per cent, or one out of every five of the eligible, vote regularly.

These and other equally challenging facts are presented in a new Harding College "flannelboard" presentation entitled "the Power of Your Vote."

The purpose of this new illustrated talk is to get more people to vote and to assist all voters to become intelligent voters in their measuring of candidates and issues. It is the third of a Harding College series designed to develop a better informed and more responsible citizenry throughout the nation.

More than 2,000 "flannelboard" speakers scattered through the 48 states, including clergymen, industrial training directors, civic club members, club women, labor union stewards, teachers, etc., have been giving these "flannel-board" talks. Since the recent public announcement of "The Power of Your Vote" a great many local organizations have begun to use it, several national organizations are advocating it as a "tool" to get out the vote. It is non-partisan.

* * *

IT IS DEVELOPED in the Harding College Freedom Forums, with a number of people working together on it.

Probably the most appealing feature of "The Power of Your Vote" is the suggestion of a "Tag Day" on all election days. Each citizen who votes would wear a little red-white-and - blue lapel tag bearing the challenge: "I Have Voted! Have You?" Those who didn't vote would thus be conspicuous and feel very "sheepish."

Some local group—a woman's club, patriotic society, chamber of commerce or other civic club —could sponsor "Tag Day" whenever an election is held, local, state or national. Newspapers would cooperate with helpful publicity. The tags would be given out at the polling places after each citizen voted.

Anything that will stimulate more people to vote and to want to know more about candidates and issues would be worth trying. The act of voting, and voting intelligently, is the most important single responsibility of American citizenship. The surest way we have of improving the character and usefulness of our government, on all levels, is for every citizen to inform himself on the issues and candidates and vote on the basis of what's best for the community, state and nation.

Child Problems and Solutions

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, PhD

Has your child ever felt you bullied him?

Many a mother who for months or years has waited on her child and done for him what he easily could do himself—hanging up his clothes, tidying up his room, washing his neck, face and ears and combing his hair even after he is in the third or fourth grade—may suddenly decide to make him do these things himself.

So she stands over him in the bathroom telling him what to do first, what next and so on. She angrily commands him to wash his face again, "get behind the ears" and "really scrub" his hands. As he grows more annoyed at her commands and she can contain her rage no longer, she takes over, and her scrubbing is not only thorough but severe. Before she has finished she and the child have been madly shouting at each other loudly enough to be heard anywhere in the house. He finally escapes and goes off "mad" to school, leaving an irate mother behind.

* * *

THE NEXT MORNING the same thing happens, and the next likewise, morning after morning, month after month. Out of it all the child, so exercised as an unoiled robot, has grown no more prepared to get himself ready for school. Besides, he may think his mother is a bully.

However, once or twice she might properly be present during his wash-up if she could keep her voice down and her insides still, trying calmly and patiently to make clear the standards she expects of him. She might be wiser if she merely had him report to her for inspection before leaving for school and would not let him pass no matter how often he had to go back to wash again, provided, furthermore, she had reasonable standards and talked to him in a matter-of-fact way "as quietly as an undertaker."

This mother would do well to forget about the need of teaching this child to tidy up his room until after she had made considerable progress at getting him to do his morning "ablutions" alone. This forgetting should be so nearly perfect that she wouldn't in the meanwhile refer to the untidiness of his room or let herself boil inside when she saw or thought of it.

When she is ready to start him at tidying up his room, she might well let him look on once while she did it, if her heart and tongue were right.

Next morning this mother will see that the lad is at this job on time. But she won't stand over him. She will go about her own work, returning later to see how he is getting along, and will warmly compliment him on his good achievement.

* * *

IF, HOWEVER, he should report to her the job is finished, she would go with him to inspect it, not expecting the unreasonable, but showing pleasure at what was done well. But if the job is woefully incomplete, she will without anger in her eyes, voice, feet, hands or backbone, make clear what more he must do to "pass inspection."

If she succeeds, she will achieve wonders and prepare this lad for helping about the home in even bigger ways. (My bulletin, "How Teach Your Child To Help at Home" may be had in a stamped envelope sent me in care of this paper.)

Asnwering Parents' Questions

Q. Our son, 3, can't be happy out of my sight even at home. Would attendance at a day or Sunday nursery school be desirable for him?

A. It might, but not until after you and he are weaned from each other at home. Leave him with Dad for brief periods while you are away. Later, leave him with a less familiar person but not a total stranger. Set the stage so he will play with another child of his own age.

Q. Sometimes our son, 8, drops remarks about his teacher's ways which strike us as bad ways. Should we keep silent then?

A. Yes, except to divert him to some other topic of conversation. If you feel sure you should go to see his teacher, wait until you can go with perfect poise and self-control, exercising the highest level of social grace.

Marion Lady Is Relieved Of Gas and Bloat

"Rennel Concentrate has done wonders for me," writes Helen Lahr, 119 W. Mill St., Marion, Ohio. "I weighed 180 lbs. when I started to take Rennel, and now I weigh 140 lbs. My dress size has changed from size 42 to 16, and I have lost all that heaviness. Rennel has also relieved me of bloat and gas. I have cut down on starchy foods, but eat anything I want."

It's amazing how quickly you can lose unsightly fat at home. Obtain 4 ounces of liquid Rennel Concentrate at your druggist. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take two tablespoonfuls twice a day. That's all there is to it—you can eat normally. If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple easy way to lose pounds of bulky fat and help regain slender, more youthful curves—if reducible excess fat doesn't seem to disappear almost like magic just return the empty bottle to the manufacturer for your money back. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. Insist on genuine Rennel.

"Out of thin air" comes the HIGHEST HORSEPOWER in Buick history

NOTE FROM YOUR BUICK DEALER: Presented here is the story of a great new engine development, as told by the men who did the job. We reprint the story here in its entirety—as we couldn't beat it if we tried.

No, we didn't have to build a new engine to do it.

We took Buick's valve-in-head Fireball Engine—which makes the most of high compression. We drew on 12 patient years of Buick carburetion research.

And we came up with more might, more miles, from gas—right out of thin air, in more ways than one.

When you talk about "miles per gallon" you think of fuel. That's what you buy.

But air's free—and for every gallon of gasoline, a busy engine can gulp more than 8,000 gallons of air.

The problem is to deliver air in the right proportions, throughout the full range of speeds at which you drive.

A carburetor—big enough to supply the air needed at full throttle—can be wasteful in stop-and-go driving.

A carburetor sized for thrift in city traffic literally smothers your engine when you really give it the gun.

So Buick engineers came up with the Airpower carburetor—a four-barrel automatic—and here's how it works.

Loafing along, two barrels are working, two stay closed. And you get a low-speed thrift and smoothness that's out of this world.

As you pick up speed, the "stand-bys" smoothly come into play—feeding not just more gas, but more air too—which means that you keep on getting maximum power from each drop of fuel.

You have 170 effortless horsepower when you need it—a tremendous reserve ready to go into instant action at the nudge of your toe.

You have the satisfaction of knowing that you get this power with a frugal use of gas. At 40 you use less gas than you formerly used at 30.

* * * *

That's the story of Airpower carburetion in factory facts and figures.

But statistics can't tell you the breath-taking joy of heading for new horizons in a great-powered new ROADMASTER.

Better come in soon. Lots of other folks are flocking into our showroom these days to see the greatest array of new Buicks we've had in years.

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice.

Sure is true for '52

When better automobiles are built BUICK will build them

This forgetting should be so nearly perfect that she wouldn't in the meanwhile refer to the untidiness of his room or let herself boil inside when she saw or thought of it.

When she is ready to start him at tidying up his room, she might well let him look on once while she did it, if her heart and tongue were right.

Next morning this mother will see that the lad is at this job on time. But she won't stand over him. She will go about her own work, returning later to see how he is getting along, and will warmly compliment him on his good achievement.

* * *

IF, HOWEVER, he should report to her the job is finished, she would go with him to inspect it, not expecting the unreasonable, but showing pleasure at what was done well. But if the job is woefully incomplete, she will without anger in her eyes, voice, feet, hands or backbone, make clear what more he must do to "pass inspection."

If she succeeds, she will achieve wonders and prepare this lad for helping about the home in even bigger ways. (My bulletin, "How Teach Your Child To Help at Home" may be had in a stamped envelope sent me in care of this paper.)

Asnwering Parents' Questions

Q. Our son, 3, can't be happy out of my sight even at home. Would attendance at a day or Sunday nursery school be desirable for him?

A. It might, but not until after you and he are weaned from each other at home. Leave him with Dad for brief periods while you are away. Later, leave him with a less familiar person but not a total stranger. Set the stage so he will play with another child of his own age.

Q. Sometimes our son, 8, drops remarks about his teacher's ways which strike us as bad ways. Should we keep silent then?

A. Yes, except to divert him to some other topic of conversation. If you feel sure you should go to see his teacher, wait until you can go with perfect poise and self-control, exercising the highest level of social grace.

High Court Plans Review Of Case

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24 — (AP)—The Ohio Supreme Court has agreed to review the second degree manslaughter conviction of Emory J. Yudick in Summit County courts.

Yudick was convicted in the death of his cousin, Steve Guylas, a passenger in Yudick's car when it was wrecked in Twinsburg Sept. 21, 1947. The machine struck an iron standard, careened across Route 91 and stopped against a utility pole. Yudick was indicted under a state law requiring vehicles to stop at intersections marked with "stop" signs.

Loses 40 Lbs. Goes From Size 42 Dress To A 16

Marion Lady Is Relieved Of Gas and Bloat

"Rennel Concentrate has done wonders for me," writes Helen Lahr, 119 W. Mill St., Marion, Ohio. "I weighed 180 lbs. when I started to take Rennel, and now I weigh 140 lbs. My dress size has changed from size 42 to 16, and I have lost all that heaviness. Rennel has also relieved me of bloat and gas. I have cut down on starchy foods, but eat anything I want."

It's amazing how quickly you can lose unsightly fat at home. Obtain 4 ounces of liquid Rennel Concentrate at your druggist. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take two tablespoonfuls twice a day. That's all there is to it—you can eat normally. If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple easy way to lose pounds of bulky fat and help regain slender, more youthful curves—if reducible excess fat doesn't seem to disappear almost like magic just return the empty bottle to the manufacturer for your money back. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. Insist on genuine Rennel.

"Out of thin air" comes the HIGHEST HORSEPOWER in Buick history

NOTE FROM YOUR BUICK DEALER: Presented here is the story of a great new engine development, as told by the men who did the job. We reprint the story here in its entirety—as we couldn't beat it if we tried.

No, we didn't have to build a new engine to do it.

We took Buick's valve-in-head Fireball Engine—which makes the most of high compression. We drew on 12 patient years of Buick carburetion research.

And we came up with more might, more miles, from gas—right out of thin air, in more ways than one.

When you talk about "miles per gallon" you think of fuel. That's what you buy.

But air's free—and for every gallon of gasoline, a busy engine can gulp more than 8,000 gallons of air.

The problem is to deliver air in the right proportions, throughout the full range of speeds at which you drive.

A carburetor—big enough to supply the air needed at full throttle—can be wasteful in stop-and-go driving.

A carburetor sized for thrift in city traffic literally smothers your engine when you really give it the gun.

So Buick engineers came up with the Airpower carburetor—a four-barrel automatic—and here's how it works.

Loafing along, two barrels are working, two stay closed. And you get a low-speed thrift and smoothness that's out of this world.

As you pick up speed, the "stand-bys" smoothly come into play—feeding not just more gas, but more air too—which means that you keep on getting maximum power from each drop of fuel.

You have 170 effortless horsepower when you need it—a tremendous reserve ready to go into instant action at the nudge of your toe.

You have the satisfaction of knowing that you get this power with a frugal use of gas. At 40 you use less gas than you formerly used at 30.

* * * *

That's the story of Airpower carburetion in factory facts and figures.

But statistics can't tell you the breath-taking joy of heading for new horizons in a great-powered new ROADMASTER.

Better come in soon. Lots of other folks are flocking into our showroom these days to see the greatest array of new Buicks we've had in years.

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice.

Sure is true for '52

When better automobiles are built BUICK will build them

Kansan Keeping Top Score Title

NEW YORK, Jan. 24—(AP)—Clyde Lovellette of Kansas holds the major college basketball scoring leadership, but only by a scant one-tenth of a point, according to the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau.

Through games of last Saturday, Lovellette had averaged 26.5 points per game to keep the No. 1 spot for the sixth straight week. But 18-year-old Bobby Petit of Louisiana State was hot on Lovellette's trail with a 26.4 mark.

Rounding out the first five are Mark Workman of West Virginia (24.8), Don (Monk) Meineke of Dayton (24.4) and Chuck Darling of Iowa (24.0).

18 Ohio Sidewheelers Remain Eligible For Little Brown Jug

DELAWARE, Jan. 24 — Ohio's premier horse race is the Little Brown Jug three - year-old pace, scheduled this year for Sept. 18 for an estimated purse of $65,000.

The initial Jug was staged in 1946 but an Ohio horse has yet to be a winner. Each year Ohio Standardbreds have figured prominently in the race but a Buckeye owned steed has yet to get to the winner's circle.

Currently 50 top three-year-old pacers are eligible to the rich sidewheeling classic as the result of a $250 installment, one of five that starts when these colts are yearlings. Of this group 41 are colts and nine are fillies. Eighteen of the 50 entries are from Ohio.

The closest an Ohio product has come to winning was in 1949 when Stormyway won an elimination heat, eventually earning second money. Stormyway is owned by the Saunders Mills Stable of Toledo who also own Goose Bay that won second money in the 1947 renewal of the Jug.

* * *

VETERAN SULKY enthusiasts are figuring that 1952 is the year for a Saunders steed to capture the richest of all half-mile track races. The stable boasts of a pair of prominent candidates in Thunderclap 2.02 3-5 and Gander 2.03. Between the two of them they won nearly $75,000. The former gathered in $40,708 and the latter earned $32,742, ranking them second and third to Meadow Rice, another Jug eligible, that totaled $43,917 during the campaign.

Thunderclap made 31 starts, winning 10 of them, placing second seven times and five times third. Gander started 25 times, winning 14 of them, being six times second and once third.

Another Ohio colt that figures prominently in the Jug picture is South Dakota, owned by Harry Short of Columbus. This youngster earned a half-mile track record of 2.07 in winning the Director of Agriculture's Stake at the Ohio State Fair last year.

Other Ohio-owned colts that remain eligible to the Delaware classics are: Wilmington's Star, R. L. Craig of Urbana; Mucho Gusto, Bert Deters of Glandorf; Slipaway, O. L. Mears of Toledo; Grand Circuit, W. H. Hecht of Celina; Singato Ka, Dr. T. V. Kolb of Litchfield; Honest Abbe, Gay Rose, Jerry's Brother, McKinley Kirk of Washington C. H.; Mandy Lee, B. A. Mayer of Springfield; Nodaway, Roy Near of Marysville; Waylord, R. E. Boyd of Galion; Bob Vic, Harry Short of Columbus; Honor Lee, R. G. Sturgis of Kenton; Mr. Nibble, Mark Zettelmeyer of Cleveland, and Adio Abbe, Yunkers and Skidmore, of Lebanon.

In order to start in the rich Jug, a $500 starting fee will be due on each of these colts the day before the race.

Senators Are Back In Battle On Which Boxer Fights Which

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24 — (AP)—Harry Matthews, a leading light heavyweight contender, is under congressional pressure to sign up for a title fight with Champion Joey Maxim.

But Matthews' manager said in Seattle they are after bigger game now—Heavyweight Champion Joe Walcott.

Senator Cain (R-Wash) said Wednesday night unless Matthews accepts a "generous" International Boxing Club offer to fight Maxim, he (Cain) may withdraw his Senate resolution that was designed to force the match.

Cain explained that when he and Senator Welker (R-Idaho) introduced the unusual resolution last year they honestly felt the IBC was discriminating against Matthews by refusing to give him a chance at the title.

* * *

THE RESOLUTION urged an investigation of IBC as a monopoly "for refusing legitimate challengers an opportunity to fight." It is one of the rare cases in which boxing was put on the mat by Congress for failure to give logical contenders a chance at a title.

In Seattle, Matthews' Manager Jack Hurley thanked the senators "for their interest in Harry's career" but said his big goal now is a match with Walcott.

Meanwhile, the battle of wits among most of the principals in the proposed Walcott - Ezzard Charles heavyweight championship fight, continues to blaze merrily.

New York State Athletic Commissioner Bob Christenberry is determined Jersey Joe will defend against Charles from whom he won the title last July 18, and he's giving the veteran Camden, N. J., gladiator until Feb. 5 to agree.

In Portland, Me., Walcott said he had fought 21 years before he won the title and "no one's gonna take it away from me outside a ring."

Felix Bocchicchio, manager of the heavyweight titleholder, would like to fight either Rocky Marciano or Matthews, and makes no bones about it.

* * *

HE EVEN said he was forced to agree to a return bout with Charles "under duress."

Hurley said Matthews will fight Walcott—and for the title.

"I wonder if Christenberry will recognize Harry as champion when he beats Joe," mused Hurley.

North Grid Team Aides Selected

WARREN, Jan. 24—(AP)—Jeff DeHaven of Sandusky, Eli Floasin of Copley and Seraphin Pope of Lima Central have been named assistant coaches for the Northern team in the Ohio high school all-star football game in Akron Aug. 16.

They were picked by Chuck Riffle, Warren mentor who was named head coach of the Northern contingent last fall.

Riffle said he would meet with the trio in the next four to six weeks to start making plans for the annual battle.

SOMETHING new's been added to the hunting take in the midwest. It is a rare female white fox, bagged by Ed Cenek, New Hampton, Ia., cafe operator. Cenek shot it near New Hampton. Veteran hunters say this particular breed usually is found in the wilds of Alaska. (International)

Cincinnati Is Tied To 'Fix' Scandal

Efforts Said Made To Shave Points In Bearcat Tilts

NEW YORK, Jan. 24 (AP)—The basketball scandals, which have been running for a year and a week, have entangled eight colleges, 32 players, one official and 25 fixers and material witnesses.

The list of schools was increased by one Wednesday and one was added to the group of material witnesses when Sam D. Feinberg, 39, former Cincinnati sports promoter, was held in $10,000 bond as a would - be briber of two University of Cincinnati players.

The Cincinnati players, however, were praised in court for turning down the bribes. They were Alvin Rubenstein and Jack Laud.

A sworn statement read by Assistant District Attorney Vincent A. G. O'Connor said Feinberg asked Rubenstein and Laub to shave points several times during the 1948-49 and 1949-50 seasons.

Feinberg, the statement said, also agreed to put up the money so his half-brother, Saul, could fix a Kentucky game on the West Coast during the 1948-49 season. The alleged fix, however, fell through.

* * *

SAUL FEINBERG is one of the 13 alleged fixers under indictment for fixing games. Another, Sol Rappaport, a salesman, pleaded guilty Wednesday to a conspiracy and faces a possible maximum sentence up to three years.

Henry E. Poppe, former Manhattan College co-captain, also pleaded guilty to conspiracy. Poppe and Rappaport were charged with attempting to bribe Junius Kellogg, Manhattan star.

It was Kellogg who told authorities the two offered him a bribe in a game against DePaul of Chicago, Dec. 16.

Kellogg's action set off the investigation that has led to the sentencing of 19 players and two fixers. Under indictment are five players and 13 alleged fixers.

Two other alleged fixers and eight material witnesses also have been indicted. And eight players out of New York's jurisdiction also have been involved.

Colleges drawn into the scandals include CCNY, Long Island University, Manhattan, Nw York University, Bradley, Kentucky, Toledo and Cincinnati.

In Cincinnati, the athletic director at the University of Cincinnati says the school allowed Sam Feinberg to handle part of its home basketball games because "he afforded us a place to play."

* * *

THAT WAS the word from M. Charles Mileham who admitted that Feinberg was the promoter for UC home basketball games which were played in downtown Music Hall prior to the construction of Cincinnati Garden.

He asserted, however, that he knew nothing about Feinberg recruiting players for the university. The statement in court in New York was that Feinberg interested himself directly and indirectly in development of the team and in recruiting players.

Mileham said he understood that Feinberg lost considerable money promoting games here. He said Feinberg paid the bill for the floor and scoring apparatus in Music Hall and he added that UC "couldn't have financed the games otherwise."

"Sam gave us the opportunity of playing good teams that we couldn't have played in our own gym," Mileham said.

Dr Reed Shank, former chairman of the university's board of trustees' athletic committee, said the only time he could recall the committee ever considered the basketball setup was when it decided to continue the arrangement with Feinberg for the 1948-49 season.

"I didn't take too much interest in basketball at the university," Shank said, "and have only seen three or four games in my life."

Appointmnt of Shank to resume a place on the UC board of trustees was approved only Wednesday by city council. It was done over the protest of Councilman Albert Cash, former mayor, who had claimed the appointment would "professionalize" athletics at UC.

A year ago, Cash refused to reappoint Shank to the board. His appointment this time, by Mayor Carl Rich, is to fill another vacancy.

Parimutuel Rule Upheld By Court

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24 (AP)—The Ohio Supreme Court Wednesday upheld a ruling that the Ohio State Racing Commission has authority to regulate parimutuel betting at tracks.

The Beulah Park Jockey Club, Inc., which operates Beulah Park in Grove City, fought a commission requirement that totalisators be used at Ohio tracks more than three-fourths of a mile long. Totalisators, often called "totes," are mechanical devices for registering betting odds.

Kansan Keeping Top Score Title

NEW YORK, Jan. 24—(AP)—Clyde Lovellette of Kansas holds the major college basketball scoring leadership, but only by a scant one-tenth of a point, according to the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau.

Through games of last Saturday, Lovellette had averaged 26.5 points per game to keep the No. 1 spot for the sixth straight week. But 18-year-old Bobby Petit of Louisiana State was hot on Lovellette's trail with a 26.4 mark.

Rounding out the first five are Mark Workman of West Virginia (24.8), Don (Monk) Meineke of Dayton (24.4) and Chuck Darling of Iowa (24.0).

18 Ohio Sidewheelers Remain Eligible For Little Brown Jug

DELAWARE, Jan. 24 — Ohio's premier horse race is the Little Brown Jug three - year-old pace, scheduled this year for Sept. 18 for an estimated purse of $65,000.

The initial Jug was staged in 1946 but an Ohio horse has yet to be a winner. Each year Ohio Standardbreds have figured prominently in the race but a Buckeye owned steed has yet to get to the winner's circle.

Currently 50 top three-year-old pacers are eligible to the rich sidewheeling classic as the result of a $250 installment, one of five that starts when these colts are yearlings. Of this group 41 are colts and nine are fillies. Eighteen of the 50 entries are from Ohio.

The closest an Ohio product has come to winning was in 1949 when Stormyway won an elimination heat, eventually earning second money. Stormyway is owned by the Saunders Mills Stable of Toledo who also own Goose Bay that won second money in the 1947 renewal of the Jug.

* * *

VETERAN SULKY enthusiasts are figuring that 1952 is the year for a Saunders steed to capture the richest of all half-mile track races. The stable boasts of a pair of prominent candidates in Thunderclap 2.02 3-5 and Gander 2.03. Between the two of them they won nearly $75,000. The former gathered in $40,708 and the latter earned $32,742, ranking them second and third to Meadow Rice, another Jug eligible, that totaled $43,917 during the campaign.

Thunderclap made 31 starts, winning 10 of them, placing second seven times and five times third. Gander started 25 times, winning 14 of them, being six times second and once third.

Another Ohio colt that figures prominently in the Jug picture is South Dakota, owned by Harry Short of Columbus. This youngster earned a half-mile track record of 2.07 in winning the Director of Agriculture's Stake at the Ohio State Fair last year.

Other Ohio-owned colts that remain eligible to the Delaware classics are: Wilmington's Star, R. L. Craig of Urbana; Mucho Gusto, Bert Deters of Glandorf; Slipaway, O. L. Mears of Toledo; Grand Circuit, W. H. Hecht of Celina; Singato Ka, Dr. T. V. Kolb of Litchfield; Honest Abbe, Gay Rose, Jerry's Brother, McKinley Kirk of Washington C. H.; Mandy Lee, B. A. Mayer of Springfield; Nodaway, Roy Near of Marysville; Waylord, R. E. Boyd of Galion; Bob Vic, Harry Short of Columbus; Honor Lee, R. G. Sturgis of Kenton; Mr. Nibble, Mark Zettelmeyer of Cleveland, and Adio Abbe, Yunkers and Skidmore, of Lebanon.

In order to start in the rich Jug, a $500 starting fee will be due on each of these colts the day before the race.

Senators Are Back In Battle On Which Boxer Fights Which

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24 — (AP)—Harry Matthews, a leading light heavyweight contender, is under congressional pressure to sign up for a title fight with Champion Joey Maxim.

But Matthews' manager said in Seattle they are after bigger game now—Heavyweight Champion Joe Walcott.

Senator Cain (R-Wash) said Wednesday night unless Matthews accepts a "generous" International Boxing Club offer to fight Maxim, he (Cain) may withdraw his Senate resolution that was designed to force the match.

Cain explained that when he and Senator Welker (R-Idaho) introduced the unusual resolution last year they honestly felt the IBC was discriminating against Matthews by refusing to give him a chance at the title.

* * *

THE RESOLUTION urged an investigation of IBC as a monopoly "for refusing legitimate challengers an opportunity to fight." It is one of the rare cases in which boxing was put on the mat by Congress for failure to give logical contenders a chance at a title.

In Seattle, Matthews' Manager Jack Hurley thanked the senators "for their interest in Harry's career" but said his big goal now is a match with Walcott.

Meanwhile, the battle of wits among most of the principals in the proposed Walcott - Ezzard Charles heavyweight championship fight, continues to blaze merrily.

New York State Athletic Commissioner Bob Christenberry is determined Jersey Joe will defend against Charles from whom he won the title last July 18, and he's giving the veteran Camden, N. J., gladiator until Feb. 5 to agree.

In Portland, Me., Walcott said he had fought 21 years before he won the title and "no one's gonna take it away from me outside a ring."

Felix Bocchicchio, manager of the heavyweight titleholder, would like to fight either Rocky Marciano or Matthews, and makes no bones about it.

* * *

HE EVEN said he was forced to agree to a return bout with Charles "under duress."

Hurley said Matthews will fight Walcott—and for the title.

"I wonder if Christenberry will recognize Harry as champion when he beats Joe," mused Hurley.

North Grid Team Aides Selected

WARREN, Jan. 24—(AP)—Jeff DeHaven of Sandusky, Eli Floasin of Copley and Seraphin Pope of Lima Central have been named assistant coaches for the Northern team in the Ohio high school all-star football game in Akron Aug. 16.

They were picked by Chuck Riffle, Warren mentor who was named head coach of the Northern contingent last fall.

Riffle said he would meet with the trio in the next four to six weeks to start making plans for the annual battle.

SOMETHING new's been added to the hunting take in the midwest. It is a rare female white fox, bagged by Ed Cenek, New Hampton, Ia., cafe operator. Cenek shot it near New Hampton. Veteran hunters say this particular breed usually is found in the wilds of Alaska. (International)

Cincinnati Is Tied To 'Fix' Scandal

Efforts Said Made To Shave Points In Bearcat Tilts

NEW YORK, Jan. 24 (AP)—The basketball scandals, which have been running for a year and a week, have entangled eight colleges, 32 players, one official and 25 fixers and material witnesses.

The list of schools was increased by one Wednesday and one was added to the group of material witnesses when Sam D. Feinberg, 39, former Cincinnati sports promoter, was held in $10,000 bond as a would - be briber of two University of Cincinnati players.

The Cincinnati players, however, were praised in court for turning down the bribes. They were Alvin Rubenstein and Jack Laud.

A sworn statement read by Assistant District Attorney Vincent A. G. O'Connor said Feinberg asked Rubenstein and Laub to shave points several times during the 1948-49 and 1949-50 seasons.

Feinberg, the statement said, also agreed to put up the money so his half-brother, Saul, could fix a Kentucky game on the West Coast during the 1948-49 season. The alleged fix, however, fell through.

* * *

SAUL FEINBERG is one of the 13 alleged fixers under indictment for fixing games. Another, Sol Rappaport, a salesman, pleaded guilty Wednesday to a conspiracy and faces a possible maximum sentence up to three years.

Henry E. Poppe, former Manhattan College co-captain, also pleaded guilty to conspiracy. Poppe and Rappaport were charged with attempting to bribe Junius Kellogg, Manhattan star.

It was Kellogg who told authorities the two offered him a bribe in a game against DePaul of Chicago, Dec. 16.

Kellogg's action set off the investigation that has led to the sentencing of 19 players and two fixers. Under indictment are five players and 13 alleged fixers.

Two other alleged fixers and eight material witnesses also have been indicted. And eight players out of New York's jurisdiction also have been involved.

Colleges drawn into the scandals include CCNY, Long Island University, Manhattan, New York University, Bradley, Kentucky, Toledo and Cincinnati.

In Cincinnati, the athletic director at the University of Cincinnati says the school allowed Sam Feinberg to handle part of its home basketball games because "he afforded us a place to play."

* * *

THAT WAS the word from M. Charles Mileham who admitted that Feinberg was the promoter for UC home basketball games which were played in downtown Music Hall prior to the construction of Cincinnati Garden.

He asserted, however, that he knew nothing about Feinberg recruiting players for the university. The statement in court in New York was that Feinberg interested himself directly and indirectly in development of the team and in recruiting players.

Mileham said he understood that Feinberg lost considerable money promoting games here. He said Feinberg paid the bill for the floor and scoring apparatus in Music Hall and he added that UC "couldn't have financed the games otherwise."

"Sam gave us the opportunity of playing good teams that we couldn't have played in our own gym," Mileham said.

Dr. Reed Shank, former chairman of the university's board of trustees' athletic committee, said the only time he could recall the committee ever considered the basketball setup was when it decided to continue the arrangement with Feinberg for the 1948-49 season.

"I didn't take too much interest in basketball at the university," Shank said, "and have only seen three or four games in my life."

Appointmnt of Shank to resume a place on the UC board of trustees was approved only Wednesday by city council. It was done over the protest of Councilman Albert Cash, former mayor, who had claimed the appointment would "professionalize" athletics at UC.

A year ago, Cash refused to reappoint Shank to the board. His appointment this time, by Mayor Carl Rich, is to fill another vacancy.

Parimutuel Rule Upheld By Court

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24 (AP)—The Ohio Supreme Court Wednesday upheld a ruling that the Ohio State Racing Commission has authority to regulate parimutuel betting at tracks.

The Beulah Park Jockey Club, Inc., which operates Beulah Park in Grove City, fought a commission requirement that totalisators be used at Ohio tracks more than three-fourths of a mile long. Totalisators, often called "totes," are mechanical devices for registering betting odds.

State To Erect New Signs For Hunting, Fishing Areas

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24—Ohio hunters and fishermen should have little trouble finding a public fishing or hunting area, when a new project, recently approved by the Ohio Wildlife Council, is put into effect by the Division of Wildlife.

The project consists of the erection of permanent and semi-permanent highway and directional signs to aid the motoring public to locate Ohio's 70-odd public hunting areas and several hundred fishing areas.

Three types of signs were approved by the Council, and will be erected throughout the state as soon as bids for their manufacture have been let and contracts signed.

The first type sign will be what might be termed distance signs. They will be placed at intervals along the main highways near particular area and will be marked with the words "Public Hunting" and or "Public Fishing Areas", and indicating the number of miles to the area.

* * *

THESE SIGNS will be similar in design and color as the present type used by the State Highway Department in identifying their roadside parks. They will be made of metal.

The second type of sign will be directional signs, which will be placed at intersections of secondary roads leading to the areas from the main highways.

These signs will be made of wood and will have the words "Public Hunting" and, or "Public Fishing Area," with an arrow pointing in the direction of the grounds.

In addition to these types of signs a third type, of permanent design and construction, will be placed at the entrance of the various areas.

These signs will be of routed wood and will be rustic in design, similar to those used on several of the forest areas today. They will proclaim the name of the area and other information of concern to the public.

Similar signs have been in use in other states and have been found very beneficial to the public.

Second Round Of HOL Play Is Underway

Gregg's Lunch, J. T. Edwards and Joslin Tractors cagers ranked at the top in Heart of Ohio League play Wednesday night in Commercial Point.

All three teams are in first place in the second round of the HOL by virtue of victories Wednesday.

Gregg's Lunchers tallied a 45-44 thriller over Top Hat cagers in their first game of the second round, while Joslin's pulled a similar 70-69 win out of the hat against West Jfferson.

On Wednesday's third game, Edwards' cagers had little trouble in eliminating Belt Corp. of Harrisburg by a 63-45 count.

New Wildlife Movie Expected

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24—A new all-color movie on the highly important subject of farmer-sportsman relations is expected to be added to the film library of the Ohio Division of Wildlife within the next few months.

The film, which is being produced and photographed by Karl Maslowski, of Cincinnati, noted wildlife photographer and naturalist, is expected to be completed around March 1. It is not expected to be available to the public until somewhat later, however.

The Division recently added another movie entitled "Behind the Flyways", a waterfowl movie, which was filmed by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

Use of this film by the public will be limited, however, as only one print of the film is available.

Sokolsky's

True, the battles for the moment have been localized, but the preparations are for a general war. All sides are engaged in such preparations as prevent the stabilization of domestic economies and the restoration of normal living among the people.

Prhaps the cure is a return to nationalism, to each country working out its own problems, each nation forming such agreements with others as prove beneficial without an acceptance of the doctrine of the world state, even in such a modified form as the United Nations.

The probability is that the human mind is not yet ready for Heaven on earth and, in the attempt to achieve it, only war and confusion are produced. Surely, this is a time to revalue the accomplishments since 1914.

There are only four members of the Chicago Black Hawks who did not play for any other team in the NHL.

Television receipts for the 1947 World Series were $65,000. This year the TV receipts were $1,000,000.

State To Erect New Signs For Hunting, Fishing Areas

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24—Ohio hunters and fishermen should have little trouble finding a public fishing or hunting area, when a new project, recently approved by the Ohio Wildlife Council, is put into effect by the Division of Wildlife.

The project consists of the erection of permanent and semi-permanent highway and directional signs to aid the motoring public to locate Ohio's 70-odd public hunting areas and several hundred fishing areas.

Three types of signs were approved by the Council, and will be erected throughout the state as soon as bids for their manufacture have been let and contracts signed.

The first type sign will be what might be termed distance signs. They will be placed at intervals along the main highways near particular area and will be marked with the words "Public Hunting" and or "Public Fishing Areas", and indicating the number of miles to the area.

* * *

THESE SIGNS will be similar in design and color as the present type used by the State Highway Department in identifying their roadside parks. They will be made of metal.

The second type of sign will be directional signs, which will be placed at intersections of secondary roads leading to the areas from the main highways.

These signs will be made of wood and will have the words "Public Hunting" and, or "Public Fishing Area," with an arrow pointing in the direction of the grounds.

In addition to these types of signs a third type, of permanent design and construction, will be placed at the entrance of the various areas.

These signs will be of routed wood and will be rustic in design, similar to those used on several of the forest areas today. They will proclaim the name of the area and other information of concern to the public.

Similar signs have been in use in other states and have been found very beneficial to the public.

Second Round Of HOL Play Is Underway

Gregg's Lunch, J. T. Edwards and Joslin Tractors cagers ranked at the top in Heart of Ohio League play Wednesday night in Commercial Point.

All three teams are in first place in the second round of the HOL by virtue of victories Wednesday.

Gregg's Lunchers tallied a 45-44 thriller over Top Hat cagers in their first game of the second round, while Joslin's pulled a similar 70-69 win out of the hat against West Jfferson.

On Wednesday's third game, Edwards' cagers had little trouble in eliminating Belt Corp. of Harrisburg by a 63-45 count.

New Wildlife Movie Expected

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24—A new all-color movie on the highly important subject of farmer-sportsman relations is expected to be added to the film library of the Ohio Division of Wildlife within the next few months.

The film, which is being produced and photographed by Karl Maslowski, of Cincinnati, noted wildlife photographer and naturalist, is expected to be completed around March 1. It is not expected to be available to the public until somewhat later, however.

The Division recently added another movie entitled "Behind the Flyways", a waterfowl movie, which was filmed by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

Use of this film by the public will be limited, however, as only one print of the film is available.

City Enters Traffic Safety Contest

Honors Won 8 Times By Circleville

Accident Prevention Action Is Pledged

Joining with other Ohio municipalities in the traffic safety program, Circleville has been enrolled in the Ohio traffic safety contest for 1952 by Mayor Ed Amey.

Circleville has won honors eight times in its population group in the contest, having received awards in 1940, 1941, 1943, 1944, 1945, 1946, 1947 and 1950.

In entering Circleville in the contest, Mayor Amey pledged:

"Realizing that cooperative action by all governmental groups and individual citizens is necessary to carry on an effective program of traffic accident prevention, Circleville will lend every assistance possible to help make Ohio the Safest State."

* * *

THE OHIO TRAFFIC Safety council, which sponsors the contest with active support of the Ohio Department of Highways, pointed out:

"Traffic safety is all-important at this time, as evidenced by the motor vehicle accident problem that is resulting from the increasing use of the streets and highways. Every indication is that the number of men, women and children killed in traffic will continue to be too high unless accident prevention activities are made effective through every means that human ingenuity can devise and that organized group action can further."

The Ohio traffic safety contest is for cities of 4,000 or more population. The cities are divided into seven population classifications and awards are made in each of these classifications to the communities showing the greatest traffic safety improvement for the year.

The seven population classes into which the contest is divided are: (1) 300,000 and over; (2) 100,000 to 300,000; (3) 50,000 to 100,000; (4) 25,000 to 50,000; (5) 10,000 to 25,000; (6) 5,000 to 10,000; (7) 4,000 to 5,000.

Groupings are made on the basis of the figures of the 1950 federal census.

Winning cities in the contest for 1951 will be announced after March 15, deadline for submitting reports.

New Horse Meat Accusations Filed

CHARDON, Jan. 24 — (AP)—The state has delivered affidavits to the county prosecutor charging two Geauga County slaughterers with not labeling horse meat as such and possessing horse meat not marked to distinguish it from beef.

The two were identified as Martin Roach and Richard Jacques, operators of a farmyard slaughterhouse in nearby Auburn Corners.

ALL EGYPT is celebrating birth of an heir to King Farouk and 17-year-old Queen Narriman (shown on the royal yacht during their honeymoon). The princeling will be named Ahmed Fouad, after Farouk's late father, King Fouad. The playboy monarch married the commoner's daughter last May 6. (International)

Governor Lausche Refuses All National Political Office Bids

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24 — (AP)—Gov. Frank J. Lausche of Ohio has removed himself from consideration for national political office.

"I have no ambition for national office," he said. "If I had had such ambitions, I would have decided to become the 'favorite son' (presidential candidate from Ohio at the Democratic National Convention).

"You may call that statement inflexible and unchangeable. I have no mental reservations when I make that statement."

Lausche bowed out of the "favorite son" picture several weeks ago. Ohio Democrats then picked Former U. S. Sen. Robert J. Bulkley of Cleveland as their "favorite son" candidate.

Lausche's statement answered reports that Southern governors had asked him to become their choice for President at the party's Chicago convention.

The report said the Dixiecrats opposed renomination of President Truman, who has not announced his plans.

* * *

LAUSCHE DENIED reports he had been approached by any bloc to head the Southern group, much less agreed to the proposal.

He recalled both Southern and Northern governors individually had urged him to seek the presidency last October. He said the proposals came during meetings of the National Governors' Conference that Lausche heads. The last meeting of members of that group was in Chicago earlier this month. Lausche said he brushed off such proposals then.

Lausche's statement scotched speculation in Ohio that Lausche might become a candidate for vice president on the Democratic ticket with Mr. Truman or his designate.

The Ohio governor has been rumored periodically as a likely prospect for nomination as President, vice president, U. S. Senator or appointment to a federal judgeship. He also has told friends he would like to return to private life to escape the hurly-burly of public office.

Last fall Lausche was rumored in line for the job of baseball commissioner. But he removed himself from consideration before a commissioner was named.

He set the rumors at rest Jan. 12 by announcing that he will seek a fourth two-year term as governor.

Truce Is Called In 'Border War'

McCONNELSVILLE, Jan. 24—(AP)—The judge called an eight-day truce Wednesday in the "border war" between Morgan and Washington Counties for jurisdiction over a Muskingum river power plant site.

Judge Clarence Crossland of Zanesville recessed the court battle until Feb. 1, when testimony will be heard to determine which of three school districts is entitled to real estate taxes from the disputed site. The land in question consists of 28 acres where the Ohio Power Co. is building a plant. Real estate taxes have been estimated at $250,000 yearly.

He's No Burglar, He's Just Jilted

CLEVELAND, Jan. 24—(AP)—It was a jilted heart, not a larcenous one, that led Harvey Hawley, 30, to steal a woman's panties and costume jewelry, his defense testified Wednesday at his burglary trial.

But the girl—pretty, 27-year-old Olga Dey—told the court, "I never saw him before in my life."

On the night of the burglary, the defense told the court, Hawley went to her apartment on a prearranged date, heard voices, and took back the presents because he thought he was being jilted.

City Enters Traffic Safety Contest

Honors Won 8 Times By Circleville

Accident Prevention Action Is Pledged

Joining with other Ohio municipalities in the traffic safety program, Circleville has been enrolled in the Ohio traffic safety contest for 1952 by Mayor Ed Amey.

Circleville has won honors eight times in its population group in the contest, having received awards in 1940, 1941, 1943, 1944, 1945, 1946, 1947 and 1950.

In entering Circleville in the contest, Mayor Amey pledged:

"Realizing that cooperative action by all governmental groups and individual citizens is necessary to carry on an effective program of traffic accident prevention, Circleville will lend every assistance possible to help make Ohio the Safest State."

* * *

THE OHIO TRAFFIC Safety council, which sponsors the contest with active support of the Ohio Department of Highways, pointed out:

"Traffic safety is all-important at this time, as evidenced by the motor vehicle accident problem that is resulting from the increasing use of the streets and highways. Every indication is that the number of men, women and children killed in traffic will continue to be too high unless accident prevention activities are made effective through every means that human ingenuity can devise and that organized group action can further."

The Ohio traffic safety contest is for cities of 4,000 or more population. The cities are divided into seven population classifications and awards are made in each of these classifications to the communities showing the greatest traffic safety improvement for the year.

Groupings are made on the basis of the figures of the 1950 federal census.

Winning cities in the contest for 1951 will be announced after March 15, deadline for submitting reports.
